ONE DIES IN CRASH—One man was crushed to death in the cab of his five ton trailer-truck in Washington, D. C., in a crash that involved five automobiles and three huge tractor-trailers. Miraculously, none of the occupants of the other vehicles were injured. One of the vehicles involved was this Volkswagen, whose driver climbed down unhurt. (NEA Telephoto)

Statewide Scholarship Program and Expansion Junior Colleges Proposed

Harrisburg Recommended as Site by Illinois Higher Education Commission

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—The Illinois Higher Education Commission today recommended establishment of the Chicago undergraduate division of the University of Illinois as a permanent two year institution.

"...The need does not exist at this time" for development of the division into a four year program, the commission said.

The commission also recommended establishment of a statewide scholarship program for needy students and expansion of the state junior college system.

"locally controlled," so that "all high school graduates are within commuting distance" of higher education institutions.

The commission, headed by Lenox R. Lohr, Chicago, released a summary of its recommendations to the legislature and to the governor.

Its membership, appointed two years ago, included educational leaders from both houses of the legislature and representatives of most state and private colleges in Illinois.

The commission quoted predictions that by 1977 there would be some 221,000 full-time students enrolled in Illinois colleges and universities, an increase of roughly 133 per cent over 1950.

For the junior college program the commission recommended that the state double its present state aid grant of $100 per pupil per year to $200. It also said legislation should be enacted to "permit and encourage the establishment of operating junior college districts... between two or more high school districts."

$600 Scholarships
Preliminary studies indicated that junior colleges could well be established at Aurora, Blue Island, Chicago Heights, Decatur, Downers Grove, East St. Louis, Elmwood Park, Evergreen Park, Freeport, Galesburg, Harrisburg, Kankakee, Lincoln, Maywood, Peoria, Quincy, Rockford, Skokie, Sterling, Waukegan, Wheaton, Winnetka, and Wood River, the commission reported.

The commission urged organization of an Illinois scholarship commission to administer a vasty enlarged scholarship program to assist needy Illinois students of good character to attend any public or private school of his choice.

The scholarships would provide $600 annual stipends, or the amount of tuition required at a given school.

The commission did not recommend any fixed number of scholarships but suggested that the program should be started with an appropriation of $600,000 or 1,000 scholarships.

The commission also urged a special study of the educational needs in the metropolitan area of East St. Louis and Belleville.

The group urged creation of a permanent commission on higher education.

Semi-Annual Safety Tests for Cars Proposed in Illinois Senate Bill

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Passenger cars would have to pass semi-annual safety tests under a bill before the Senate today.

The bill introduced Wednesday provides for state police to supply safety certificates to be issued by official testing stations. The stations could charge up to $1.50 for the twice-a-year tests. The bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1958.

Another bill would require all cars sold in Illinois after Jan. 1, 1958, to be equipped with windshield wiper devices.

Another bill would permit downstate groups to form county fair and exposition authorities similar to the Cook County Metropolitan Fair and Exposition Authority approved by the last session of the Legislature.

The exposition authorities, like the Cook County authority, would draw money from the State Fair and Exposition Fund. Downstate fairs started a filibuster over the Cook County legislation last session, ar-

Closing for the holiday will be federal and state offices and the court house.

The post office will dispense with regular service. However, the lobby will be open for box holders and special delivery mail will be delivered. School will be out because of the Saline County Teachers association institute at the Harrisburg Junior high school that day.

Israeli Cabinet Fails to Reach Agreement on Eisenhower Plea

Reject Fluorspar Subsidy

House Group Chops $60.8 Million From Interior Department Budget

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The House Appropriations committee chopped $60.8 million today out of President Eisenhower's budget request for the Interior Department.

The 12 per cent cut—the second approved by the committee so far in Mr. Eisenhower's record $71.8 billion peacetime spending budget—would give the department and minor related agencies $454.4 million for the 12 months starting July 1.

The President had asked for $515.2 million.

The economy-minded committee members told the House that "substantial reduction" must be made all along the line to relieve the drain of federal expenditures on the taxpayers of the nation.

The House Wednesday approved the committee's first effort at budget-cutting, passing a bill which cut $80.3 million—or 2 per cent—in the nearly $4 billion requested to run the Post Office and Treasury departments and the U. S. Tax Courts in fiscal 1958.

The deepest cut in the interior bill came in the committee's outright rejection of a request for $40 million to continue government subsidies for domestic producers of certain minerals—tungsten, asbestos, fluorspar, and columbium-tantalum.

"The committee feels strongly," its report said, "that it is far more important to grant essential increases for the development and protection of our national resources—including forestry, soil and moisture conservation, land management, geological surveys, and fish and wildlife—for the benefit of the entire nation, than to appropriate a large increase for the benefit of a relatively few mining producers."

Southern Illinois University, State Colleges Ask Increase in Budgets

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—A total increase of more than 15 million dollars was being asked today by Southern Illinois University and the State Teachers College Board in their budgets for the next two years.

Before the State Budgetary Commission Wednesday, the Teachers College Board—representing Northern, Western and Eastern state colleges and Illinois State Normal University—entered a budget request of $27,972,260 for the coming two year budget period.

The request compares with a 1955-57 budget of $19,187,789 from appropriations and college income funds for the four institutions.

Southern Illinois University's proposed budget for 1957-59 added up to $25,264,139 from state appropriations and income funds, compared with a 1955-57 budget of $14,677,426.

All the budget figures were for operating expenses only. The Teachers College Board did not present its capital improvements or building budget. SIU entered a proposed capital improvements budget of $39,319,000.

Plan Residence Centers

The individual teachers college budgets were $5,167,280 for Western State at Macomb; $7,378,095 for Northern at De Kalb; $8,387,185 for ISNU at Normal; and $5,417,470 for Eastern at Charleston.

Included in the SIU operating budget proposal was an item for establishment of residence centers in the Madison St. Clair county area of $309,200.

SIU President Delyte W. Morris said the proposal included establishment of a residence center at a high school building at East St. Louis which would eventually be given to the university, and at Shurtleff College which plans to close in June.

Morris said it was up to the Legislature and the governor to decide what should be done about provision of adequate institutions in the Madison St. Clair county metropolitan area.

If the residence centers are established, Morris said, it would require an additional $580,000 not yet included in the budget to start adequate instructional programs at the two centers.

Cairo Man Is Sentenced

CAIRO, Ill. (U.P.)—Laurence Bagby, 28, Cairo, Wednesday pleaded guilty to the shotgun slaying of his 4-year-old nephew and another man. He was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Bagby pleaded guilty in Circuit Court just after a jury had been completed to try the murder case.

Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds sentenced Bagby to 20 years in prison for slaying Bagby's nephew, Edward Bruce Taylor, and 14 years for killing Leroy Mitchell, 56, Cairo. The sentences will run concurrently.

Mitchell and the boy were slain last July 14 after an argument between Bagby and Mitchell. Inquest testimony indicated that the boy evidently got into the line of fire as Bagby shot at Mitchell.

Plowing With Mule Rough Enough; Judge Frees 'Drinking' Farmer

TAMPA, Fla. (U.P.)—Farmer Ned Lynn, charged by police with "plowing while drinking" after officers found him in a ditch with his mule and plow, was free to return to farming today.

County Judge W. Marion Hendry dismissed the charges Wednesday with the comment that "any man who has to plow with a mule has a rough enough time in life without having to spend time in jail."

Mayor Says Plant Assured For Metropolis

Allied Chemical And Dye Corp. to Build on Site There

METROPOLIS, Ill. — Mayor B. N. Bean said Wednesday night that Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. of New York City will build a multi-million dollar plant near here in the near future.

The plant will be located on a 600 acre plot of ground a mile northwest of here along the banks of the Ohio River. The plant will produce uranium salts and by-products for use at Atomic Energy Commission plants in Paducah, Ky., just across the Ohio, and at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Bean, a member of the Metropolis Industrial Committee, said officials of the firm estimated the plant will cost $12 million to build. It will employ from 280 to 450 workers when it gets into full operation.

"We received definite word today (Wednesday) that the plant will be built here," Mayor Bean said, adding that there are a few minor details to be worked out yet. "One of the problems involves the proposed plant site which the owner has so far refused to sell."

The mayor said he expects construction to begin within 30 to 60 days and the plant is expected to be in operation in early 1959.

Gov. William G. Stratton intervened personally two weeks ago with the Illinois Commerce Commission to remove a possible obstacle concerning power service and rates for the new industry. The rates for power furnished by Central Illinois Public Service were higher than Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. wished to pay and thru Gov. Stratton's action lower rates were offered.

The new plant is the result of approximately 12 months' efforts by Bean and the other members of the Metropolis Industrial Committee, L. W. Sturgis, Allan Brannon, William Brannon, O. R. Morgan and Alvin Oakes.

Bean said the committee went out and "sold" the New York City firm on the Massac County location, meeting with corporation officials in New York City, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

Metropolis' other industries include Metropolis Tending Co., which makes baby tenders and other products, Good Luck Glove Manufacturing Co., one of the largest such concerns in the United States, and several small wood-working plants.

Two Oil Well Drilling Permits

Two permits for oil well drilling operations in Saline county were issued at Springfield between Feb. 11 and Feb. 14.

Walter Duncan of LaSalle, Ill., was granted a permit for the D. L. Bestgen No. 1, SE 1/4 SW 1/4, 3-48-66 (Raleigh township) and Frank L. Strickland of Mt. Vernon, Ill., was granted a permit for the Jess Clarida No. 1, SW 1/4 NW 1/4, 21-48-56 (Brushy township).

Reply is Postponed, But Indicate Rejection of Unconditional Withdrawal

BULLETIN
JERUSALEM, Israel (U.P.)—The Israeli cabinet failed to reach agreement tonight on President Eisenhower's call for unconditional withdrawal of this country's forces from the Gaza Strip and the shore of the Gulf of Aqaba.

As a result, informed sources said, the government has postponed a reply to Washington.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.)—The Israeli cabinet called an urgent session today to consider the threat of American backed U. N. action against Israel. First indications were Israel would stand firm unless a last minute "miracle" developed.

Premier David Ben-Gurion conferred before the cabinet meeting with Ambassador Abba S. Eban on President Eisenhower's implied support of U. N. "pressure" on Israel if it does not withdraw from Egyptian territory, and on a personal appeal from Mr. Eisenhower to Ben-Gurion.

The President's speech brought rejoicing in Cairo, but Israel was expected to condemn the President's decision. Initial reaction from Israeli circles in Washington was that Israel does not plan to give in as the President hoped it would.

The Israeli Knesset (Parliament) voted on Jan. 23 to keep the Gaza Strip and not to withdraw from areas along the Gulf of Aqaba until Israel receives firm guarantees that Egypt will not resume its blockade of Israeli shipping. A Jerusalem dispatch said that decision was still binding.

Israel also has expressed fear Egypt would resume fedayeen commando raids from the Gaza Strip even if U. N. Emergency Forces policed the area. An Israeli military spokesman said Wednesday Egypt had established a new fedayeen base at El Arish in the Sinai Peninsula from which attacks were being made against Israel.

The statement came after Israel announced two Israeli jeeps had been blown up by newly-laid mines near the border and one Israeli soldier injured.

Sends Appeal to Ben-Gurion

Mr. Eisenhower discussed the "fateful" Mideast crisis in a nationwide broadcast Wednesday night. He expressed hope Israel would withdraw and said if it did not "I believe that in the interests of peace the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel to comply."

Arab sources at the United Nations said he also had sent a second personal appeal to Ben-Gurion to accept the U. N. demand that Israel withdraw immediately.

A Jerusalem dispatch, quoting Israeli reports from Washington, said the President had thrown U. S. support behind U. N. actions because he was committed to King Saud of Saudi Arabia to press for withdrawal of Israeli troops from Egypt.

The Jerusalem reports said the President needs the support of Saud to win Arab support for the "Eisenhower Doctrine" in the Middle East and that that consideration came first. Saud arrives in Cairo later this month for talks with the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

The General Assembly session on the Middle East was postponed—for the third time at request of the United States—to permit "a little more scope" for the President's appeal to Israel to succeed. The assembly put off its session until Friday afternoon (3 p. m.) upon an appeal to the 27-nation Afro-Asian bloc by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., upon his return from a Washington conference Wednesday with the President and congressional leaders.

The sanctions resolution demanded by the Arab countries was ready for presentation, as it had been for the last eight days. It had been withheld in hopes Israel would heed the President's appeal and also to lineup more sponsors for it.

Evicted Family of 15 Appeals for Home So Members May Be Reunited

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A family of 15, home $125 a week and it was forced to separate after they were evicted, appealed today for someone to sell or rent them a home so they can be reunited.

The apartment building was condemned recently and new owners took it over with plans for a complete remodeling. The Emlunds were ordered to move.

After fighting the case in the courts, the family lost and got a five-day notice to move.

In the meantime, Mrs. Emlund and her husband were called to Memphis, Tenn., by the death of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Dillard. When they returned last Monday, their belongings had been moved into the street and their home was locked.

One Son in Army

Her husband is staying with friends, along with two of his sons. Another son, Louis, 22, is in the Army, but is due to return home soon.

"We've never been separated like this before," Mrs. Emlund said. "All I want is to keep my family together."

"It seems like refugees from foreign countries come here and find jobs and houses ready and waiting, but people who have lived here all their life can't."

The mother said she and her family lived and grew for 15 years in a five-room duplex apartment on Chicago's West Side. They were cramped, but there was a yard outside for the children to run and play.

Blind Salesman Needs No Help

SAN FRANCISCO.—There is one San Francisco salesman who really knows his route by heart. He has to because he is totally blind.

Every day 41-year-old Clifton Jones makes the rounds of his territory selling household goods without the aid of a dog or human assistance, calling on an average of 150 homes as he makes his rounds first up one side of the street and down the other.

He and his wife, Mary, 29, who has only 10 per cent of her vision, are expecting their first child in May. He met his wife four years ago at a banquet given for blind operators of merchandise stands in public buildings.

Jones first began to lose his sight at the age of seven when he was accidentally struck by an ax. About his customers, Jones says:

"They don't always buy. So I know they buy not because I am blind. I'm either a good salesman or they need either a brush or mop."

Glancing away from the road for just one second at a speed of 40 miles an hour is like driving blind for 58 feet.

Cowboys 'Tree' a Trail Town

In order to drive a herd of cattle over the Chisholm Trail from Texas to Kansas, cowboys rode for weeks through hot, dusty country. At the trail's end they were paid, and they uncorked their enthusiasm by shooting up the town. Sometimes these events were hilarious and comic. Often they ended in tragedy. They were always destructive. They are part of the story of

By DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Another conflict of interest crops up in Eisenhower administration; Senator Russell describes "Moonbeam Resolution."

WASHINGTON.—On top of the embarrassing resignation of Robert Tripp Ross as Assistant Secretary of Defense because of a conflict of interest, another conflict has cropped up in the Pentagon. This is the eighth conflict of interest to plague the Eisenhower administration.

The latest is that of Robert Carr Lanphier, Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense in charge of supply and logistics.

Despite the high position given him in the Eisenhower administration and despite his post in charge of supplies, Lanphier did not resign his position as vice president of the Sangamo Electric Supply Co. of Springfield, Ill., which has defense contracts with the government.

Lanphier was not available for comment. However, his self-ned biography in the latest edition of Who's Who states that he is simultaneously deputy assistant secretary of defense since 1954 and vice president of Sangamo Electric, a firm of which his brother is president. He is also an executive of Sangamo Weston Ltd., a British subsidiary. Other subsidiaries are Allied Tool and Machine, Sangamo Generators, Inc., and Capitol Aviation, Inc.

Poor's directory of business firms states that Sangamo "manufactures special products for the Department of Defense. It has done confidential work for the Department of Defense since 1941." It is against the law for a government official to accept office if he retains stock or financial interest in any company doing business with the government.

TRUMAN ON THE SENATE.—Ex-President Truman told freshman Sen. John Carroll (D., Colo.) recently how he felt when he first came to the Senate.

"The first six months," he said, "I wondered how I ever got elected. The next six months, I wondered how the other 95 ever got elected."

MOONBEAM RESOLUTION

During the closed-door debate on President Eisenhower's Middle East proposals, Georgia's astute Sen. Dick Russell tied a tag on the Eisenhower doctrine. He called it the "Moonbeam Resolution."

"This is a moonbeam resolution," he snorted. "I feel like I'm in a dark room with a moonbeam coming through a small crack. I have tried to grasp it, but I can't get hold of it."

"I have wrestled with Mr. Dulles (Secretary of State). I have wrestled with Admiral Radford (Chairman of the Joint Chiefs)," Russell continued. "But I can't get any information. The underlings know how the aid money is to be spent. King Saud and his underlings went back to Saudi Arabia. They know what the money will be used for. But I can't get any information about anything from anyone. It's a moonbeam. I can't get hold of it."

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

Thirty-year-old Congressman John Dingell of Michigan got a special thrill when he introduced the old Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill, partially written by his late father, to provide medical help for all Americans. Interesting thing is that 14 years ago this bill was defeated as "socialized medicine."

The old state power plant, across the street from the Capitol has been taken over and is now a recorded center. Already about 5,000 cubic feet of records have been moved from files in the Secretary's offices, the state auditor's office, the Division of Highways, the Illinois Commerce Commission, Departments of Public Safety and Mines and Minerals and the State Pension system to the center.

July was the biggest attendance month (1,999,934) at Illinois State Parks, according to statistics released by State Conservation Director Glen D. Palmer, Yorkville.

Total at all parks, he said, was 10,126,000, with Starved Rock near LaSalle getting 999,030. New Salem, near Petersburg, drawing 946,711 was next.

Other state park attendances included: Black Hawk 383,025; White Pines 809,340; Lincoln's Tomb at Springfield 596,163; Pere Marquette near Alton 567,290; Lin-

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN
Carpentier Favors 'Right-to-Know' Provision in State Laws

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special).—A new attempt to put a "public right to know" provision in state laws has been launched by Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, East Moline. He plans to include it in legislation having to do with state records. He says it will give any citizen the right to look at any record in any state office.

Two years ago an attempt to include such a clause, which would have required all state and local legislative agencies to keep meetings and hearings open to the press and public and which had strong support in newspaper circles died in House Executive Committee. Cosponsors included Reps. Paul Simon, D., youthful Troy weekly editor, and Alan J. Dixon, D., Belleville.

The "public right to know" provision, Carpentier said, will be contained in the key bill in legislation being drafted to implement the recommendations of the National Records Management Council, Inc. The legislation is the outgrowth of a council survey made under Carpentier's supervision. The Secretary said the provision will state:

"All records made, created or filed by, or on file with any public officer of the state or any agency, are public records and shall be opened for public inspection, except as otherwise provided pursuant to law, at all reasonable times."

The Secretary said he had requested the "right to know" provision be included after he had examined the first draft of the legislation and that the Council agreed with him. He said "in my opinion the right of every citizen to immediate and unquestioned access to all records of government not prohibited by statutory restrictions is a fundamental of our free form of government."

Carpentier said the state records provide the Secretary "may accept for deposit in the state archives the record of any agency or of the legislative or judicial branches of the state government that are determined by him to have sufficient historical or other value to warrant the permanent preservation of such records by the State of Illinois."

Illinois' venture into establishment of an efficient system state government records and keeping procedures is attracting attention of other states according to Secretary Carpentier. He reports six states, Massachusetts, Washington, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Georgia—and the Society of American Archivists have asked for information.

The old state power plant, across the street from the Capitol has been taken over and is now a recorded center. Already about 5,000 cubic feet of records have been moved from files in the Secretary's offices, the state auditor's office, the Division of Highways, the Illinois Commerce Commission, Departments of Public Safety and Mines and Minerals and the State Pension system to the center.

coln's Home at Springfield 537,104, Cahokia Mounds 203,498; Cave in Rock 242,899; Giant City 299,628; Grand Marais 162,383; Mississippi Palisades 86,925; Nauvoo 117,090; and Siloam Springs 108,153.

Two new air conditioned limousines have been delivered to state officials. They represent an expenditure of $17,769 but trade-in allowances on old cars reduced this figure. One for Gov. William G. Stratton cost $8,500 but a trade-in cut this to $5,300. Another for State Treasurer Elmer J. Hoffman, Wheaton cost $9,269 but the trade-in saved $3,869.

A protest by State Rep. George Brydia, R., Prophetstown, has brought a promise by House Speaker Warren L. Wood, R., Plainfield, that a first-aid station will be installed on the third floor of the State House for the benefit of legislators. Brydia protested that one member died last year because of a delay in getting first aid and that another was barely saved.

Brydia's protest was prompted by discovery that a state house first aid station, staffed by a State Health department nurse and equipped with the things every first-class first-aid station needs, has been moved to the new $11.2 million dollar state office building. He said he was demanding that it be returned or be replaced and Wood agreed.

There are many elderly members of the House and Senate and Brydia said it takes too long to get aid to them in an emergency. He told of an attack suffered by the late Rep. Lee Lynch, Charleston, who had to wait 15 minutes until he received aid, then died later. Value of first-aid was cited by Brydia in the case of Rep. John W. Lewis, Marshall, who was saved by quick application of oxygen.

State Police Chief William H. Morris, Joliet, has discontinued use of unmarked squad cars because their success brought accusations they are "speed traps." So he has put the easily spotted black and white cars back on the job to give motorists a better chance of spotting them. The unmarked cars are now concentrating on traffic violations by moving traffic.

When use of unmarked cars was at its peak, 75 of them were teamed up with 14 radar units on highway duty. The success of the unmarked cars in checking speedsters is shown in the fact that arrests for speeding during 1955 totaled 42,886 as compared with 7,687 arrests in 1955. The change has cut the number of current arrests but there are less complaints against speed traps.

Lost Wallet Results In Profit to Girl

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Eleven-year-old Janet Hoberman lost her wallet during the Christmas shopping season just past, but ended by making a $15 profit on the deal. The wallet was turned over to police who revealed that a note in it read:

"Jewelry box for Mommy, socks for daddy, key chain or stretch socks for Robert. If I have a dollar left over, I can get something for myself."

It also contained one dollar. Sympathetic readers began sending contributions to the youngster, hoping the police would locate her.

When Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hoberman, recently claimed the wallet, she was given an additional $15 in donations sent to police.

Helpful Hints For Home Owners

Cleaning Wallpaper
To get rid of grease spots on wallpaper, hold a clean white blotter against a wall and press over it with a warm iron, moving to a clean spot on the blotter as soon as one portion of it absorbs the grease.

Homemade Mixing Tray
To make a leakproof tray of any desired size in which to mix glue, paints, etc., turn up the four sides of a piece of aluminum foil.

Insulating Glass
More than 90 standard sizes of Thermopane insulating glass are made to fit the most popular types of window sash.

Fire Safety
Be sure all volatile and inflammable liquids like solvents, torch fuels, gasoline, etc. are stored in metal cans with non-leaking tops.

Decorators' Items
Venetian blinds are today entering the category of "decorators' items." They come in a wide range of colors and color combinations and in an interesting variety of finishes: spatter, mother-of-pearl, wood grain, linen and lace.

Four Without Splashing
When pouring liquids such as turpentine and shellac from square gallon cans having a spout in one corner, hold the can so that the opening or spout is at the top when the can is in pouring position.

Full Length Mirrors
Full-length mirrors are almost a "must" in the modern home; usually they are placed in the doors on bedroom and coat closets, where they facilitate "last minute check-ups" of attire by family and guests.

Junkman Reaps Nice Profit

BERLIN, Neb. (AP)—An 80-acre junkyard turned out to be profitable for a retired farmer, C. H. Alstrom.

During the past 10 years, under constant protests of his family, Alstrom acquired every type of junk metal he could lay his hands on — from nuts and bolts to box cars.

"A true junkman collects anything and everything," Alstrom said. "Besides," he added, "I just got started and couldn't stop."

His hobby paid off recently when a Kansas City firm offered him $85,000 for his accumulation. Alstrom figured the company would realize a profit as high as $30,000 on the deal.

Among items in his horde were about 1,500 wrecked automobiles, 15 tractors, two box cars and two buses. Alstrom purchased some of the junk at sales. Much of it was brought to his farm by persons wanting to unload it.

Once when he went to town for a load of oats he spent the money for a load of junk instead. And he said he got "hail Columbia" from his family the time he purchased the seats from an old school.

The Kansas City firm figures it will take 20 men using two cranes about six weeks or longer to get the junk shipped to Kansas City.

And, faced with the prospect of an empty farmstead, the 69-year-old Alstrom said he planned to start all over again. "The family isn't so angry now," he said, "and I've still got a lot of junk — farms that hasn't been collected yet."

Boilers in the two new coal-fired electric generating plants to be built by American Gas & Electric Co., at Sullivan, Ind., and Graham Station, W. Va., will be as tall as 23-story buildings.

PRAM DE LUXE—Mrs. Merle Gavitt, of Greenville, Mich., an expectant mother, admires the streamlined super-duper baby carriage sent to her by her parents in West Berlin. The wicker pram sports red taillights, white sidewall tires and chrome fenders. It is easily convertible to a de luxe stroller.

Mrs. Blackman, who goes to great lengths in preparing an interesting program, surprised the group by presenting Mrs. J. A. Musgrave who displayed part of her bell collection and gave a most informative talk. She made everyone realize that bells are like individuals, having their own distinct characteristics and "voices." When evening shades are falling
And we sit in quiet alone:
To our hearts there comes a long-

If she only could come home.
Friends may think we have for-

When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the heartaches,
Our smiles hide all the while.

Sen. Johnson Regrets Call to Pressure Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said Wednesday night he regrets President Eisenhower's call to "bring pressure" on Israel alone to withdraw its troops from Egypt. Johnson said Israel should withdraw its troops as the President urged in his nationwide address Wednesday night. But Johnson said "the withdrawal should be accompanied by adequate U. N. action that will not leave Israel defenseless."

"I regret that the administration feels that there is no choice but to bring pressure on one side in a two-sided dispute in the Middle East unless certain terms are met," he said.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland urged before the President's address that the United States demand U. N. sanctions against any nation defying the United Nations—not just Israel.

Knowland said after the address that he had not heard it and would not comment until he had studied it.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Israel should be guaranteed fair treatment by Egypt before withdrawing its troops.

"We ought to find a way to guarantee Israel free use of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal before we expect her to withdraw," he said. "If we don't Israel will be justified in her attitude."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), another member of the committee, said he was impressed with the President's "strong statement that aggressors should have no reward." He said he shared the view "we have got to support the U. N."

But he said he did "not think that any sanctions action should be taken unilaterally against Israel if no action is taken against others who have defied the U. N."

"I favor Sen. Knowland's proposal," he said.

Sen. Albert Scott (R-Canton) said the increases seemed "unjustifiable" to him and that federal aid grants were becoming a hardship because the state had to put up so much matching money to get them.

The bills, and similar ones in the House, would increase the hunting license fee to $3 and the fishing license to $2.

Group Approves Higher Hunting, Fishing Licenses

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The State Conservation Committee today voted approval of $1 increases in the charge for state hunting and fishing licenses.

But a number of committee members said they voted to recommend passage of the bills only to get them back to the Senate floor where they intended to oppose them.

The amount of the increases would be used to match federal aid money for fish and wildlife programs.

Sen. Albert Scott (R-Canton) said the increases seemed "unjustifiable" to him and that federal aid grants were becoming a hardship because the state had to put up so much matching money to get them.

Gov't Reports Cost of Living Still Climbing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that the cost of living climbed to a new record in January for the fifth consecutive month.

The increase will bring automatic cost of living pay increases for 1.4 million workers.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that its consumer price index rose 2 of 1 per cent between December and January 1947-49 prices. The index has reached new record levels each month since September, 1956.

BLS Commissioner Ewan Clague, asked about the outlook for February, said he expects it will continue "to creep up like this."

The January increase means that 1.1 million automobile farm equipment and aircraft factory workers will get a penny an hour pay hike on March 1.

The bureau said another 300,000 workers in the electrical and some other industries also will get pay raises because their wage contracts also contain cost of living escalator clauses.

The BLS also reported the average factory worker with three dependents last month earned $74.99 a week after federal taxes. This is some $1.50 below the peak reached in December.

There were 25 deaths in May, 1954, and 19 in August, 1951.

Randolph County led last month's death count with six. Jefferson County had three, Perry County two, and Franklin, Gallatin, Hardin, Jackson, Saline and Union counties, one each.

The district investigated 135 accidents last month and made 704 arrests, 368 of them for speeding.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Israel should be guaranteed fair treatment by Egypt before withdrawing its troops.

President Asks 'Indulgence' For His Coughing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower coughed loudly Wednesday night before making his national radio-TV report on the Middle East situation.

Then he apologized for his "stubborn cough" and asked for the "indulgence" of his listeners.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said earlier the cough was "just a little" one the President caught during his hunting vacation at Thomasville, Ga. He said the President did not have a fever.

Separate College In E. St. Louis Area Proposed

CHICAGO (AP) — A report to the Illinois Higher Education Commission recommended that the 1957 Legislature authorize establishment of a new, separate four year state college in the East St. Louis area and appropriate funds for planning purposes.

The recommendation was made by Dr. John E. Ivey, director of the southern regional education board. Ivey was asked by the Higher Education Committee to survey educational needs in the area, where the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University have been competing through extension activities.

Ivey said he found there is "a clear need" for a four-year state college in the Madison-St. Clair county area.

He said it should be designed for a minimum enrollment of about 10,000 students by 1970, and should not be a branch of any existing institution.

Ivey recommended that until a system for statewide coordination of higher education is developed, the proposed state college should either have a separate board of trustees or be put under the jurisdiction of the Teachers College Board.

Ivey vetoed the development of additional junior colleges as a substitute for a four-year state college. He said establishment of a four-year college and broadening of vocational education programs in the high schools "would seem to be a more prudent use of resources than the immediate establishment of new junior colleges."

OLD-TIMERS MAKE THE HEADLINES—Claimed to be the oldest man in the Middle East is Mohammed Khalil Abu el Hawa, who lives in a village on the Mount of Olives, overlooking Jerusalem. According to his birth certificate (inset), he was born in the Moslem calendar year 1240, which would make him 136 years old. Mohammed, who still has remarkable strength, works in his garden and walks to the local mosque for his daily prayers. He would probably say "just a kid" if he could meet Mrs. Mary Arnold, right, who lives in the Methodist Sunset Home in Quincy, Ill. She has just celebrated her 104th birthday. Although confined to a wheel chair by a hip broken a few years ago, her health is good and she keeps busy chitchatting. Born in Milan, Ind., Mrs. Arnold was widowed in 1905.

Israel Angry At Eisenhower Pressure Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli circles today condemned President Eisenhower for throwing U. S. support behind a United Nations move to "exert pressure" on Israel if it does not withdraw its troops from Egypt.

The initial angry reaction suggested that Israel does not plan, as the President had hoped it would, to give in on the withdrawal issue as a result of the U. S. stand.

Mr. Eisenhower discussed the "fateful" Middle East crisis in a nationwide radio-TV address Wednesday night. He reiterated his hope that "Israel will see that its best immediate and long-term interests" lie in complying with a U. N. order to pull out of the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba areas of Egypt.

Believes Pressure Needed

But he said that if Israel continued its refusal, "I believe in the interests of peace the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel to comply."

The White House disclosed today that Mr. Eisenhower sent Israel Premier David Ben Gurion a "personal" message Wednesday before making his radio-TV address.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty declined to disclose the contents. But informed sources said the message was designed to inform Ben-Gurion of the contents of the speech in advance of delivery. They denied it was an "ultimatum" to Israel.

Mr. Eisenhower carefully refrained from spelling out what sort of "pressure" the United States would support against Israel in the United Nations if it continued to defy the world organization. But he indicated he was thinking more in terms of "moral pressure" than military or economic sanctions.

Raise Outcry

A proposal by Afro-Asian nations that tough sanctions be applied against Israel has raised an outcry from many members of Congress.

One high U. S. official said, however, that the President had not ruled out sanctions. In referring only to "pressure," this official said, the Chief Executive was being deliberately vague to give the United States a free hand for maneuvering its position if the issue does reach a U. N. showdown.

Officials said "moral pressure" could include a number of things. For example, they said, it might mean turning the full U. S. information machine against Israel.

In discussing Israel's refusal to withdraw from Egypt, the President said that if the United Nations "does nothing, if it accepts the ignoring of its repeated resolutions calling for withdrawal of invading forces, then it will have admitted failure."

"This failure would be a blow to the authority and influence of the United Nations in the world and to the hopes which humanity placed in the United Nations as the means of achieving peace with justice."

This failure, he said, "would, in addition to its injury to the United Nations, jeopardize the prospects of the peaceful solution of the problems of the Middle East."

"This could bring incalculable ills to our friends and indeed to our nation itself. The United Nations must not fail."

Grand Jury to Hear Evidence in Hitch-Hike Murder

SALEM, Ill. (AP)—Marion County State's Atty. Basil Wilson planned today to ask for recall of a grand jury to hear evidence in the murder of a hitch-hiking Indiana Marine.

Charged with the murder are Robert Baker, 26, Wormleysburg, Pa., and his wife Trudy Jo, 17. They are charged with slaying Marine Pvt. Larry M. Kirk, 21, Winslow, Ind., in Marion County in December and dumping his body in Clay County.

Wilson quoted Baker, who said he was a former boxer and plumber, as saying in his signed statement:

"It had been in our minds since we left Utah that we were going to commit robbery and murder if necessary . . . when the Marine fell asleep, I said 'I guess this is it' and she agreed."

Wilson Sees No Changes in Military Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said today that developments in the Middle East and Hungary "do not seem to justify major changes in our military planning or programs at this time."

Wilson told the Senate Armed Services Committee that "recent events seem to confirm the soundness of our decision to maintain great military strength for the long pull."

The defense secretary and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified at a closed door session of the committee. Wilson's prepared testimony was made public by Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.).

Wilson said "we do not foresee at this time any major changes in the overall level of our military forces during the next few years."

However, he said, "There will be continuing changes in the nature and composition of our forces, in line with scientific and technological progress and changes in the international situation."

Truman Sees No Justification For Sanctions

ISLAMORDA, Fla. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today he sees no justification for sanctions against Israel as hinted by President Eisenhower.

In his speech to the nation Wednesday night, Mr. Eisenhower said the United Nations "has no choice" but to exert pressure on Israel to get her troops out of disputed Middle East areas.

Mr. Truman made his statement at a news conference beside the beach at his Florida Keys vacation spot.

Mr. Truman said he did not hear all of the President's speech and could not offer any lengthy comment on it.

But he said, "I don't believe in sanctions against Israel . . . I believe the sanctions should have started when Russia went through the Black Sea's straits."

"We should have kept Russia out of the Mediterranean Sea and kept them from sending arms to Egypt—we could have stopped this situation right then," he said. "There's no sense talking about that now. We've got to deal with the situation as it is."

Wilson Presented Lapel Button for 'Sons of Dunghill'

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House photographers have organized the "Sons of Dunghill" in honor of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

They presented Wilson Wednesday with a lapel button bearing the initials "S. O. D." as he arrived at the White House.

The button commemorates the remark Wilson recently made outside the White House after a meeting with President Eisenhower.

When he was asked about the meeting, he replied "this isn't my dunghill."

Wilson cheerfully accepted the "S. O. D." button and kept it in his lapel as he posed later for pictures.

Youth Begins Life Sentence for Killing Policeman

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Joe Brimhall, 18, Elgin, Ill., began a sentence of life imprisonment today for the murder of Chicago policeman Robert Golden.

His two companions—Edward Pack, 20, and his half brother, Robert Lord, 18, both of Fox River Heights, Ill.—received sentences of 40 and 14 years, respectively. The three were sentenced Wednesday.

All three youths had pleaded guilty to killing Golden, 35, Carpentersville, Ill., with a shotgun in an attempted tavern robbery. Brimhall's teen-age wife, an expectant mother, cried as the sentence was imposed.

Truck Driver Found Shot to Death at Colp

COLP, Ill. (AP)—A Tracy, Calif., truck driver was found shot to death in the cab of his truck here today.

William County Coroner Adolph Fluck called the death an "apparent suicide."

The man was identified as Ora B. Yancey, 35, who formerly lived at Herrin, two miles east of here.

Clarence Kincaid of Colp, who was walking nearby, told authorities he saw Yancey "fooling around the semi-trailer" and moments later heard a pistol shot.

A .38-caliber pistol was found at Yancey's side.

Illinois Labor Dep't Bars Employees From Any Lobbying

CHICAGO (AP)—An order barring its 3,000 employees from attempting to influence state legislators or lobbying for legislation was issued by the Illinois Labor Department.

Director Roy Cummins said Wednesday the order applied to department workers "while they are supposed to be working and should be on the job."

Cummins further stipulated his ban applied to employees who take vacations and various leaves of absence in an effort to influence bills before the General Assembly.

In issuing the order, Cummins cited a statement by Gov. William G. Stratton which banned lobbying by state employees.

Legislature Gives Final Passage To Statehouse Appropriation Bill

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Legislature started a long weekend recess today after giving final passage to an emergency $260,000 appropriation for the controversial Statehouse Remodeling Commission.

The House voted the appropriation, previously passed in the Senate, by a margin of 133-19 Wednesday after two hours of oratory which referred to the $90 waste-basket in the governor's office, "oceans of red carpeting" in the new lounge for legislators, the Hodge scandal and remodeling of the statehouse press room.

The commission has spent an original appropriation of slightly more than one million dollars.

Freshman Democrat Paul Elward, Chicago, led the opposition to the deficiency appropriation and observed that 26 million loaves of bread would have to be taxed to make up the money.

In committee action, the House Executive Committee delayed action for the second straight week on one of Gov. William G. Stratton's key Hodge scandal reform bills, creation of a new department of financial institutions to regulate banks and other institutions now under the auditor.

The committee recommended adoption of resolutions asking Congress to repeal the federal excise tax on public transportation and creating a special commission to study the mass transportation problem in the Chicago area.

Federal Jury to Probe Charges of Vaccine Price Fix

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charges of price-fixing by polio vaccine producers will be investigated by a federal grand jury "shortly," the nation's antitrust chief said today.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen said the Justice Department is winding up a preliminary investigation and is ready to take action.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss (R-Wis.), who had asked the department to investigate the pricing of vaccine, said he was "delighted that action has come so speedily."

On Feb. 2, Reuss wrote Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. that the city of Milwaukee had received 11 identical bids when it went shopping for polio vaccine. Reuss said four manufacturers and seven local distributors each offered the vaccine for $5.586 for a vial of 9 cubic centimeters.

A 12th firm, which turned in a lower bid was forced to withdraw it, Reuss said, when a manufacturer threatened to cut off his supply unless he stuck to the industry's price schedule.

It was not learned where the federal grand jury inquiry will be held.

Safety Council Praises Illinois Highway Record

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois' efforts to reduce its highway death toll were applauded today by the National Safety Council.

The council sent a telegram congratulating Gov. William G. Stratton, other state officials and Illinois citizens on the state's 1956 traffic record.

Illinois highway fatalities dropped 3 per cent in 1956, compared to a national increase in highway deaths.

The Third Party at The White House: It's Ike, Mamie--and MIN--These Days

MAMIE AND MIN: The First Lady still calls her "Mama."

By KENNETH GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—You may think Ike and Mamie are the only ones who live at the White House these days. But there's a third party.

It's Ike, Mamie--and MIN.

She's a white-haired, harmonica-playing, alert, amusing and articulate 78-year-old lady named Elvira Carlson Doud. Her nickname is Min.

Her daughter is the First Lady of the Land. Her son-in-law is the Chief Executive of the U.S. Her settling influence on both is profound.

Furthermore, Mrs. John Doud is the first mother-in-law within the memory of living White House historians to be a resident of the executive mansion.

And unless someone wants to undertake a decade of historical research she's most likely the first great-grandmother to live at the White House.

Despite a buoyant and gay personality, Min completely shuns limelight, and for this reason nothing is ever mentioned officially about her continued residence here in Washington.

It's a fact however that since the President had his heart attack in Colorado about a year and a half ago she has been spending practically all her time at the White House.

The high altitude in Min's hometown, Denver Colo., rules out any more vacation visits there by Ike.

At the same time, it's just as much a factor that the President and Mamie love to have her around.

Members of the Eisenhower family are now used to seeing Ike frown quickly, look around and say: "Where's Min?"

It was at Ike and Mamie's urging that she agreed to stay with them at the White House during the fall, winter and spring. During the summer months she returns to Denver where she has lived many years.

Lively, but relaxed, Mrs. Doud will be a constant source of pleasure and diversion to the presidential couple during the next four years, according to friends of the family.

They say she has a zest for liv-

New Faculty Appointments By SIU Trustees

CARBONDALE, Ill.—An associate professor of home economics and an assistant professor of education were among new faculty appointments announced Tuesday by the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Helen Evans of Michigan State University was named to the home economics department. The assistant professor is Howard V. Davis who is now teaching at the Clayton, Mo., high schools. Davis has also taught at Washington University and at high schools in Pacific, Columbia, and Maplewood, Mo.

The board also approved the appointment of Richard W. Anschutz of Kiene and Bradley, Topeka, Kan., as an instructor in architecture for the Vocational Technical Institute. Richard D. Miller, a University of Michigan graduate who has performed in the Zurich Opera House, Switzerland, was named lecturer in music to replace Floyd Wakeland, on sabbatical leave.

A new lecturer in art is Basil E. Brummel, Jr., who studied at the University of Texas and Mexico City College.

The SIU board also announced that James G. Umstatt, chairman of the department of curriculum and instruction at the University of Texas, will serve as lecturer and visiting professor of education at Southern for the fall term beginning next September. He is the author of six books on secondary education.

Among a number of part-time lecturers added to the SIU staff were: Henry N. Peters, research psychologist at the Jefferson Baracks Veterans Administration Hospital; William L. Rogers, psychology with the Dow Chemical Co.; Russell E. Hewitt, vocational teacher at Vandallia High School; Bryan Kerley, driver training instructor, Vienna High School; Kenneth E. Miller, driver training instructor, Enfield High School; Richard L. McClain, Anna-Jonesboro High School, who will teach accounting; Mrs. Betty Small, home economics teacher, Nashville High School; and Leon Clifford Watkins, Elizabeth Lindsay, William H. Cooke, and Mrs. Eileen Howle, all of the Cairo high school.

In another action, the SIU board honored a request of Gov. Stratton and the Illinois Budgetary Commission for the part-time services of John S. Rendleman, SIU legal counsel and assistant to the president. Rendleman will prepare a taxation digest and proposals for fiscal reorganization of the state government.

Although she plays Canasta, one of Mamie's favorite games, she doesn't play with Mamie.

"I'm not that good. Mamie plays it with vengeance. She's an expert."

Nearly every day Mrs. Doud's other daughter, Mrs. Gordon Moore, drops by the White House to chat with her for a while. And this isn't done out of any sense of duty, say friends.

"Probably Min's greatest forte is her conversational ability," explains another woman who has seen her on a number of occasions. "She's just a lot of fun to be with."

Musically inclined, every once in a while Min plays the harmonica, although she admits it isn't too dignified for a woman her age. One of her favorite tunes is, "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

THE SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY Air Force ROTC Rifle Team, winners of 22 of 23 postal matches this season, meet first "live" competition in successive weekend tournaments at the University of Illinois, Feb. 21, and Booneville, Mo., Feb. 28. The SIU team will defend its midwest championship in the Missouri meet. Front row: Staff Sgt. Elvis Presley Worst

Dressed in Television, Taylor Says

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Elvis Presley, who soon may be doing a right dress in the Army, is guilty of a wrong dress in TV.

Like Abou Ben Adhem, Presley's name led all the rest today as Irving Heller, Manhattan tailor and sartorial handicapper, compiled his list of the 10 worst dressed men in television.

"Presley is one of the most deplorable cases of bad dress I've ever seen," said Heller. "Without a doubt, he is the worst dressed man ever to appear before the TV cameras."

"I am not knocking his talent, but I feel he is doing a disservice to the cause of dressing among teenagers by his example. He does not look neat, dignified, and clean-cut the way a young man should."

Heller, who gained a measure of distinction a few years back when he referred to Arthur Godfrey as

"a wet teabag with legs," also picked the worst dressed show on TV—"What's My Line."

"The men on 'What's My Line' look like pallbearers," said Heller. "The women are dressed beautifully, but the guys look like they're getting ready for a funeral."

As a result of this questionable distinction, "What's My Line" contributed two candidates to Heller's list—Johnny Daly and Bennett Cerf.

"You would also have to rate high on any worst dressed list Sid Caesar and John Cameron Swayze," said Heller. "Caesar has massive shoulders and those suits he wears just accentuate them. Swayze probably owns more clothes than any man on TV, but doesn't seem to know what to do with them."

Wally Cox "terrible" and Dave Garroway "puffy" also make the roster. "You can add onto that list Jimmy Durante, Liberace and Steve Allen," said Heller.

"Durante—awful. And Liberace

—gaudy. As for Steve Allen, he looks like a man who's been sleeping all night in his suit."

Heller confessed he'd be hard put to round up a 10 best dressed list in video.

"Nobody is really outstanding," said Heller. "I would say Hal March is about the best dressed. Perry Como is good, too. And you can add on Jerry Lewis and Jack Webb. They wear what looks good on them. They don't worry about trends."

"Generally, the quizmasters come off the best—March, Jack Barry, Mike Wallace and Ralph Story. Ed Sullivan and Ed Murrow are well-dressed, too. And I'd pick Jackie Gleason as the best dressed fat man in TV."

Dock Workers Ordered to Return to Work

NEW YORK — Striking East Coast dock workers were ordered back to work today despite local disputes in Baltimore and Norfolk, Va., that continued to idle 10,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Assn.

Settlements in both ports were imminent, however, and indications were that all 45,000 dock workers affected by the strike would be back on the job by Monday.

Thousands of dock wallpapers were expected to respond to shape up calls today in East Coast ports where settlements have been reached, although not yet ratified. But many piers, including several in New York, were not expected to be manned until accords are reached in Baltimore and Norfolk.

The back-to-work movement of New York's 25,000 longshoremen coincided with the settlement early today of the port's 20-day strike of 4,000 tug and barge crewmen that had immobilized 400 harbor craft and cut off 70 per cent of the city's fuel deliveries. The tugboat men, members of the United Marine Division of the National Maritime Union, will vote on a new four-year contract Friday morning, returning to work the same day, provided the pact is ratified.

Well-Designed Superhighways Safer Even With Faster Driving

NEW YORK — You're safer when you drive on a good road. There are those who doubt that statement, contending that superhighways invite faster driving and therefore are more dangerous. But the facts support the claim that a well-designed road is safer even with higher speed limits and generally faster-moving traffic and generally faster-moving traffic. Giant toll roads like the New Jersey and Pennsylvania turnpikes have had consistently lower accident rates than the nation as a whole. This superior record didn't just happen. It is the result of these factors:

The turnpikes are better-patrolled, with more rigid enforcement of the higher limits. They are engineered for safer driving. Their traffic lanes are wider, divided, scientifically banked and graded with no intersection and traffic lights.

—They are easier to drive on and therefore eliminate one of the leading causes of accidents—driver fatigue.

Fatigue Causes Accidents

When a turnpike accident does occur at high speeds, it can be a grisly affair. Yet turnpike officials say speed is not the major factor. The Pennsylvania Turnpike, for example, has a maximum speed limit of 70 miles an hour. But a survey of accidents on the highway over the past few years showed that 75 per cent of the cars involved were going less than 51 m. p. h.

California freeways last year reported 22 fatalities for every 100 million vehicle miles. The fatality rate for the state's rural highways was 9.30.

Other super-highways report similar statistics. Fatigue as an accident-causer cannot be overrated. Recently, the American Automobile Assn. sent a survey over parallel routes—one on a new superhighway, the other on an older, narrow road passing through a number of towns and cities.

The driver of the second car drove nearly nine hours longer over approximately the same mileage, averaged about 15 miles an hour slower, applied his brakes more than 1,200 more times, stopped for 154 more traffic lights, made 454 more turns and 102 more stops for traffic. He naturally was more tired and a lot less alert by the end of his trip.

Comfort and Safety

Last year, New York University safety experts put two identical twins into two identical new automobiles and told them to drive to identical destinations—from Portland, Maine, to Youngstown, Ohio. One twin used the Maine Turnpike, the Merritt Parkway, and the New Jersey and Pennsylvania turnpikes. The second took parallel routes on older roads, involving heavy city traffic.

They were "compensated by psychologists who were to give them tests at the end of each day's drive. The one driving on the older roads collapsed from fatigue three hours before the first day's run was completed.

This was a dramatic demonstration of what the nation's new 41,000-mile interstate system will mean in terms of driver comfort and safety. One federal official has estimated that this new network will cut highway fatalities in half. And the Automotive Safety Foundation recently claimed that improvement, even on older highways can reduce accidents by 40 per cent.

The foundation cited a study made of a narrow, 18-foot road stretching for some 200 miles. It had a whopping accident rate of 220 wrecks for every 100 million vehicle miles travelled.

The road was re-paved and widened to a minimum of 22 feet. The accident rate in the next year dropped 39 per cent.

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON — A church-led campaign to abolish the death penalty is gaining momentum in America.

Strong Protestant drives are now underway in New York, California and Massachusetts. In each of these states, Protestant church councils have adopted resolutions declaring that capital punishment is contrary to Christian principles, and have appealed to the legislatures to do away with it.

Similar bills are being pressed on at least a dozen other state legislatures this year, with varying degrees of church endorsement.

Six states already have banned capital punishment. They are Michigan, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Maine, Minnesota and North Dakota.

The Massachusetts Council of Churches cited the experience of these states as an answer to the main argument usually advanced for continuing capital punishment: That it serves as a deterrent to murder and other grave crimes.

There has been no indication, Massachusetts churchmen said, that the homicide rate has gone up in any of the states that now limit punishment of criminals to life imprisonment and terms of years.

The religious argument against the death penalty was stated succinctly by the legislative committee of the New York State Council of Churches:

"We hold that life is the gift of God and should not be destroyed by an individual or state."

Although there is growing opposition to capital punishment in church circles, it is still far from a unanimous sentiment.

There are many Protestants who believe that capital punishment, however repugnant to Christian mercy, may be in the same "necessary evil" category as defensive war.

Corn Acraege Reserve agreements for 1957 may now be signed by farmers who have a 1957 "old farm" corn allotment, according to Herman Driskell, chairman of the Saline County ASC committee.

Farmers who take part in the Corn Acraege Reserve program will sign agreements calling for a reduction in the farm acreage of corn below the allotment. In return for reducing corn acreage, the Secretary of Agriculture will make payments based on the productivity of the land put in the Reserve.

Mr. Driskell points out that the signing of agreements is on a first-come, first-served basis. This is necessary since the county office cannot accept agreements which in total require more money than has been allocated for the programs. If the money allocated for corn is all obligated before the end of the sign-up period, the County ASC office will keep a list of corn producers who want to sign agreements. If unused funds from other counties or States are reallocated to the county after the regular sign-up period, farmers who are on the list may sign up to the extent that money is available.

The deadline for the signing of Acraege Reserve Agreements by producers of corn is March 8.

Paints Work Wonders for Many Homes

The next best thing to building a new home is decorating an old one. New paint can make old rooms look bigger, cheer up dark corners, lend fresh life to furniture, draperies and rugs.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Obeying signals and giving proper signals are important duties of the motorist.

Drivers should give clear warning well in advance of any intention to cause interference with the normal flow of traffic. Either a hand signal should be given or the driver should use a mechanical device if his vehicle is so equipped. The mechanical device, incidentally, when moving from one lane of traffic to another.

Not only is it the obligation of the driver to give signals, but he must also be alert to observe and take warning from signals given by others. In addition, he should heed the significant movements of pedestrians and bicyclists.

There are several ways to start thinking about color. You may start with a basic drapery or rug color, and select complementary colors. Or you may have a north or south exposure that needs cheering up or toning down.

In the living room particularly, many homeowners select colors that harmonize with the color of their rugs. If your rug is gray, for instance, ideal color combinations are dark brown, yellow-green or shell pink walls.

If your rug is green, paint walls lemon yellow, light gray or lighter pastel green. For tan rugs, plain white, blue, peach or light tan are matching colors.

If your furniture or draperies are mostly solid color, start your painting with dove gray walls or select plum or straw yellow. Blues, light browns and peach go well with most fabrics. In general, the idea is to find colors that contrast well with your basic shades, or are complementary.

Paint children's rooms with bright, cheerful reds, yellows and blues. Give them their share of color fun right from infancy. Use bright, plaid bedspreads, dress up the furniture, paint floors and walls light pastels or shades, never dark colors.

It's fun to use your own imagination and ingenuity to bring new color combinations to your home.

Stratton Opposes Federal Aid To Education

ST. LOUIS, Mo., — Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton today said a strong stand today against federal aid to education and said that under President Eisenhower's school program, Illinois would be a "giver only."

Stratton said the need for more classrooms and teachers is a local problem and that "with federal money comes federal control."

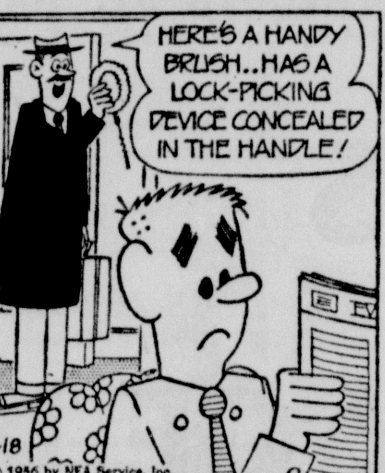

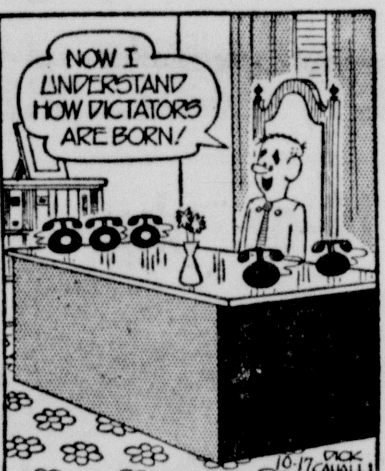

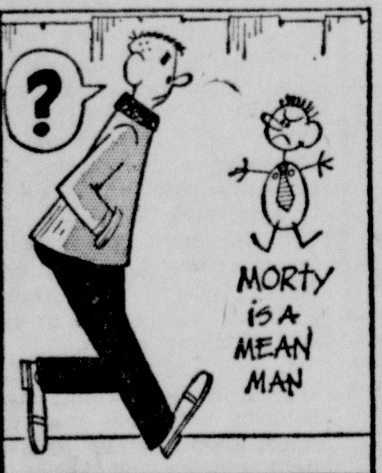

He predicted Wednesday night in a speech to a State meeting here that the objection that federal aid means federal control will have "important weight" when Congress considers the President's school program.

Stratton, a Republican, said Missouri and Illinois under the President's plan based on "need and effort" would be "givers only" and that Illinois would get a federal aid grant of only $11,153,000. "To receive that," he said, "Illinois taxpayers would be required to match the federal so-called gift with another $22,253,000 in Illinois tax money."

School Beautification Projects Top Activities by Galatia High FHA Girls

"Variety is the Spice of Life," say the Future Homemakers of the Galatia Community high school as they enter into the various activities sponsored by the home-making department.

The homemakers got off to an early start back in June of last year when they met at Lake Glendale for a picnic and planning session for the year's activities.

Two beautification projects have been completed, one just within the past few days.

First of all, in the early part of November tulip bulbs in several colors and varieties were purchased and planted around the flagpole in front of the school building.

Only recently the members volunteered their time and efforts to applying a new coat of paint to the faculty room and added drapes and matching bedspread for the room. The color scheme is glenwood gray, flamingo and chartreuse.

This project was completed by the girls working in twos and threes during available periods of time from other school duties.

During the Christmas season the Future Homemakers used their persuasive power to add a little cheer to the lives of the elderly people living in the Good Shepherd Nursing home at Galatia. The girls visited Galatia merchants

Hang Up Snow Shovel When You Reach 90

METHUEN, Mass. — "Don't shovel snow after you're 90."

That's the advice of 96-year-old William P. Fogg, who says he hung up his snow shovel for good six years ago.

Fogg scoffs at the idea of 65 being the proper retirement age. "While a fellow feels well, eats well and sleeps well," says he, "there should be no particular stop-work birthday."

A-Warheads For Air Defense

POINT MUGU Naval Missile Test Center, Calif. — Anti-aircraft weapons including the much-publicized Nike and Hercules guided missiles are now being equipped with nuclear warheads in the United States, an official announcement here said today.

It was the first official disclosure that America's air defense stations have the long-sought atomic warheads for their modern rocket and jet weapons.

The Point Mugu announcement said the formal disclosure was made by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson in Washington. Wilson, according to Point Mugu, said air-to-air rockets equipped with live nuclear warheads have now been dispatched to jet interceptor bases throughout the country to provide them with the weapons capable of destroying entire potential enemy bomber fleets.

Wilson said that ground-to-air missiles such as the Nike and Hercules and Talos are in the process of being equipped similarly with warheads bearing heavier nuclear charges than the smaller air-to-air rockets.

The Point Mugu announcement said Wilson reassured that there will be "no radiation hazard" to neighborhoods where the atomic weapons are stored underground.

Couple Friendly To Elderly Woman Left $100,000

JOLIET, Ill. — A middle-aged couple who made life "happy and comfortable" for an elderly widow received an estate of more than $100,000 at her death.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones said it was "quite a surprise" when they learned the terms of Mrs. Mary Smith Goin's will, filed for probate in a Will county court.

The Joneses revealed they had lived with Mrs. Goin from last November until she died Feb. 8. They had known Mrs. Goin and her late husband for many years.

The will included $100,000 worth of real estate and some $3,000 in personal property. The entire estate was bequeathed to the Joneses except for $300 for maintenance of cemetery plots.

County Chapters Are Observing FFA Week, Feb. 16-23

Future Farmer of America chapters in Saline county high schools are joining with other chapters across the nation in observing National FFA Week during the period of February 16-23.

Chapters are observing the week in various ways, including reports of their activities in newspapers, on the radio and TV, window displays and other programs.

The twenty-one FFA chapters in this district are combining Friday afternoon in the presentation of a program over WSL-TV from 4:30 to 5 to climax their week's activities. All FFA member wear jackets with the FFA emblem and it is pointed out the emblem is significant and meaningful in every detail.

It is made up of five symbols: the owl, the plow, and the rising sun, within the cross section of an ear of corn, which is surmounted by the American eagle.

Upon the face of the emblem appear also the words, "Vocational Agriculture," and the letters, "FFA."

The owl is symbolic of wisdom and knowledge; the plow is the symbol of labor and tillage of the soil; the rising sun is emblematic of progress and the new day that will dawn when all farmers are trained and have learned to cooperate; the cross section of an ear of corn represents common agricultural interests since corn is native to America and grown in every state; and the eagle is indicative of the national scope of the organization.

President of the Harrisburg FFA chapter is Charles Buchanan and E. J. Thompson advisor; Galatia FFA chapter president is Joe Neal McPherson and James Bond advisor; David Coontz is president of the Eldorado FFA chapter and H. C. Bishop advisor.

Asks Senate Probe Of Investigation of Sisters' Slaying

SPRINGFIELD (P)—Sen. Robert Graham (D-Chicago) today introduced a resolution for a Senate investigation of alleged lack of cooperation among law enforcement agencies in the Grimes murder case.

Graham said "someone is fooling someone" in Chicago and that the city police, the sheriff's office and the state's attorney's office seemed to be "all headed in different directions" in investigating the Grimes case.

Graham said the Grimes murders and the previous murders of three boys had "shocked the state and the nation" and asked for immediate consideration of his resolution. But it was deferred and sent to a committee when Sen. Arthur J. Bidwell (R-River Forest) said he did not believe the murder investigation was the concern of the Senate.

Breach Still Unhealed Bad Timing, Plus Ill Will, Blamed For Failure to Arrange Truman Trip

WASHINGTON (P)—Bad timing plus some long-standing ill will apparently are to blame for the failure of former President Truman and the Eisenhower administration to arrange a trip for Mr. Truman to Greece and Turkey.

Both Mr. Truman and the administration have been tight-lipped over any behind-the-scenes reasons why arrangements for the trip fell through. The trip had been looked upon as a move which might have healed a long-standing breach between Mr. Eisenhower and his predecessor.

Interested, at First

Attempts to arrange the trip began Feb. 11 when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles telephoned Mr. Truman in Florida. Dulles asked whether the former president could go to Greece and Turkey the week of March 10 to attend ceremonies commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Truman Doctrine.

Mr. Truman expressed some interest, but said he would have to see if his schedule could be rearranged. He asked that Dulles write him a letter.

The State Department late Tuesday made public the text of Dulles' letter and Mr. Truman's Feb. 16 telegraphed reply turning down the offer.

HST Gives Answer

Mr. Truman's telegram said: "Dear Mr. Secretary: In reply to your of the 12th instant I am very sorry to be compelled to refuse the invitations to visit Greece and Turkey. The information which you sent me arrived too late for me to arrange my affairs and other commitments so as to leave in time. Respectfully yours, Harry S. Truman."

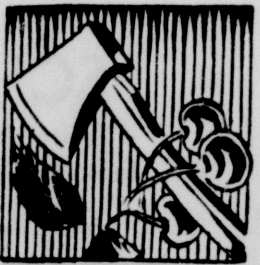

The brief reply and the reference to "too late" was read by observers as Mr. Truman's notice to the administration that (1) they could have asked him earlier, and (2) He isn't ready to make up with the administration.

The fact that the letters were made public, and Mr. Truman's reference to "too late" indicated it would do no good for the administration to ask the former president to reconsider.

Aged Lothario Forfeits Wallet Along With Heart With Young Wife

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Correspondent

Memo to men who become widowers in their late middle years: Better look around for a wife as old as you are or even a few years older, instead of a woman years younger.

That advice comes from a woman who has worked for years in a convalescent home. She has seen what frequently happens to the middle-aged man who hasn't enough sense to marry a woman near his own age, one who needs his companionship as much as he needs hers, and who is willing to make a good home for him in his late years.

She says: "A lot of widowers in the late 50s and 60s are egotistical and about as foolishly romantic as a 17-year-old."

"Instead of looking for a second wife among widows their own age—they decide they want a young wife."

"If they have some money or can convince a younger woman that they are well-fixed, they can always find one who is tired of working, wants to be supported, wants a car, nice clothes, etc., and is willing to kid the older man along in his belief that he is as young as he thinks he is and twice as attractive."

When Money Goes, So Does She

"But young women don't often love older men and when the money goes, so does the pretense of love. And when he hits the 70s and needs to be looked after, he winds up in a nursing home."

"I've heard the same old story so many times, it amazes me that men can be so dumb."

Well, there it is, men. It's not a very romantic picture and not one you'll enjoy facing. But before you decide that even though you are pushing 60 you are just as young as most men of 40, and what you want is a young wife, maybe you'd better think again.

There's one fact you can't escape. In 10 years a man of 40 will be 50. And in 10 years a man of 60 will be 70.

Don't overlook that important difference when you choose a wife.

Senior Class to Present 'Meet Corliss Archer'

The Senior class of Harrisburg Township high school will present the play, "Meet Corliss Archer," by F. Hugh Herbert, in Bonnell gymnasium on March 1 at 8 o'clock. The play, a comedy in three acts is given with the permission of the Dramatic Publishing company.

Miss Eleanor Etherton, who is directing the play, has chosen the following cast:

Corliss Archer, a teen-age girl, Joann Priest; Mr. Archer, her father, Herb Parks; Mrs. Archer, her mother, Judy Wells; Louise, the Archer's maid, Sandra Gray; Mildred, Corliss' best friend, Pat Hodson; Dexter Franklin, the boy next door, Randall Ervin; Mr. Franklin, Dexter's father, Fred Lamkin; Mrs. Franklin, his mother, Alicenell Bean; Cousin Agnes, on Mrs. Archer's side, Janice Gid-cumb; the doctor, from the insurance company, Jim Allen; Betty, another girl friend, Sandra Laster; a nurse, Collette Waverling.

The story centers about Corliss who is bored with her life and decides to write a fake diary—not her actual dull life, but an imaginary existence that would curl anyone's hair. She writes up her mild father as a raving alcoholic who beats his wife, and her boy friend, Dexter, as a juvenile delinquent.

Elderly and snooty Cousin Agnes comes to pay the Archers a visit. She gets hold of the fake diary and believes it is true. She stirs up all sorts of trouble and finally gets the parents to forbid Dexter coming to the house. Straightening out all the confusion leads to amusing and often hilarious comedy.

"Meet Corliss Archer" is a play thoroughly suited to high school pupils and one of the most entertaining comedies published. It will truly delight the audience.

Zane Gray's Stories Revived on TV; House Looks as If Owner Still There

By ALINE MOSBY

United Press Hollywood Writer HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Television has revived Zane Gray's stories, and the house where they were written looks today as if the owner still were there to turn on his TV set.

On sound stage 11 at RKO-Pathe studio, New York actors in five o'clock shadows and rented cowboy boots shoot it out in the best Zane Gray fashion on the dusty false-front sets for Friday's "Zane Gray Theater."

Forty miles away in suburban Altadena sits the house where Zane Gray lived from 1920 until his death 17 years ago. It's a place far removed from television, the wild West of 1957.

The huge beige stucco house with numerous wings and guest houses sprawls over 1-1/2 acres in a neighborhood of faded mansions and rest sanitariums. Mrs. Gray, a sparkling lady who showed me around the place, has kept her home and its 1920 furnishings exactly as her famous husband left it.

Pages from Manuscript

On the second floor of the three story home is Gray's studio—two mammoth rooms with beamed ceilings. His Morris chair with a lap board laid over the arms still stands by the fireplace. On the board are pages from one of his hand-written manuscripts as if he had just stepped from the room. One page reads, "Days passed. Drake appeared in town after the Melville incident and he looked dark and sad..."

The studio is packed with Gray's staggering collection of his books, with their gayly painted covers of western heroines and cowhands, seashells, mementos of his South Sea Island expedition and Indian relics. From the ceiling hang Indian baskets.

"Oh, half the stuff is gone," said Mrs. Gray as we threaded our way over skins of cougars and bear he had shot. "We gave the Library of Congress many of his manuscripts and his home town of Zanesville, Ohio, has a lot of items."

"These things are lucky to get dusted twice a year."

Gray's buckskin jacket and leggings that he wore when he journeyed annually into the Tonto Basin.

Age Doesn't Necessarily Dictate Diet Change

CHICAGO — Persons over 40 need not alter their eating habits if they have an adequately balanced diet and are not under medical care, according to Dr. Melvin M. Chertack, clinical instructor of medicine at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

"Many patients develop problems related to the fear of growing old, and the fear that they must eat differently, live differently and think differently, when actually there is frequently less change in the required management of a well adjusted 70-year-old than in a badly adjusted 30-year-old," Chertack said.

"Malnutrition is bad nutrition, not starvation, and the mal-nourished 50-year-old is little different from the mal-nourished 20-year-old, except that the older individual may have suffered from the complications of malnutrition over a greater number of years."

Four Women Law Makers Praise Male Colleagues

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Here is some flattering information for male members of the Illinois House: Four feminine freshmen representatives think you are all charming.

What's more, the lady lawmakers agreed today their male colleagues are helpful and most respectful.

The four women legislators are Mrs. Esther Saperstein, Chicago, Mrs. Fernie Carter Pierce, Malta, and Miss Jeanne Hurley, Wilmette, all Democrats, and Mrs. Frances Dawson, Evanston, a Republican.

Of the four, only Mrs. Saperstein has had previous experience in running for political office. She finished third in a five-man field in the last aldermanic race in the Rogers Park section of Chicago.

Mrs. Pierce, Miss Hurley and Mrs. Dawson agreed they had never thought of running for the Legislature or other political office until friends urged them to do so.

Not for Curiosity
Mrs. Saperstein was asked to run by the Cook County Democratic Central Committee, "probably as a result of my showing in the aldermanic race," she said.

All the women agreed their running for the Legislature was not merely feminine curiosity and all said they wanted to serve as long as the voters would keep returning them.

"I think it would take more than one term to really do your people much good," Mrs. Pierce said.

Mrs. Dawson said she had not expected to find "all the confusion and moving around" while the Legislature was in active session, but other than that the women agreed the Legislature was just about what they expected.

Mrs. Pierce and her husband, Tim, raise registered Angus cattle at Malta. They have two children.

Need More Women
Miss Hurley, a lawyer, lives at Wilmette with her mother and two lawyer brothers. "They never dreamed I'd take up politics as a career," she said, "but they are very happy about it."

Miss Hurley said she is most interested in judicial reform and welfare legislation as a result of serving in the Cook County Family Court.

Mrs. Saperstein, who has two children and two grandchildren, said she wished there were more women in government and urged women to take a more active part in local politics.

Mrs. Dawson is the mother of two daughters and the grandmother of a 3-month-old girl.

She dampened any ideas women might have about taking the reins of government from the hands of men.

She said her first reaction when friends asked her to run for the Legislature was: "I asked my husband."

Dairy Problems At SIU, U. of I. 2-Day Workshop

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Dairy farmer problems of feeding and caring for calves from their birth to freshening time and feeding dairy cattle for producing good milk economically will be discussed by University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University dairy specialists during the first day of SIU's second annual two-day Dairy Workshop February 26 at Carbondale.

The second day of the Workshop program will be February 28 (Thursday) with program emphasis on dairy sanitation and feeding forages. Sessions will begin each day at 9:45 a. m. and adjourn at 3:30 p. m. in the SIU Cafeteria Annex. Alex Reed, SIU professor of dairy science in charge of arrangements, says persons attending the workshop may bring their lunch or may purchase it at reasonable prices in the University Cafeteria where meetings will be held.

A panel discussion on growing the dairy herd will comprise the morning program of the first day. Participants will be K. A. Kendall and R. E. Brown, dairy science specialists from the University of Illinois, and Howard H. Olson Reed, SIU dairy specialists.

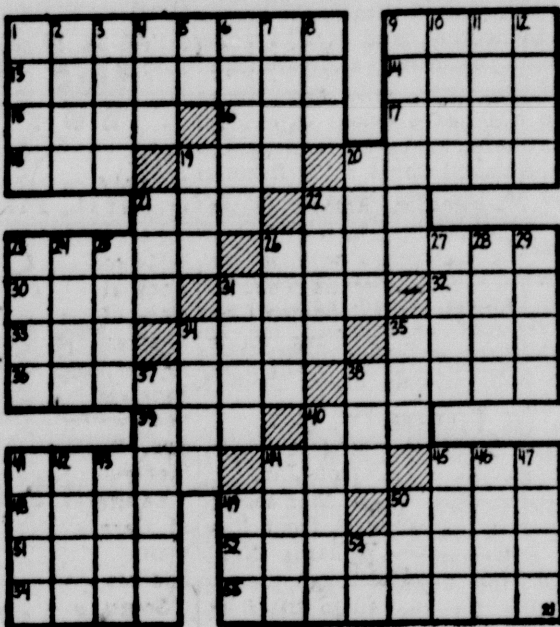

Kendall, a native of Montgomery County, Ill., has been on the U. of I. dairy science department faculty since 1941. His specialty is the physiology and nutrition of the dairy cow. On the Workshop panel he will discuss feeding and caring for the calf from birth to six months of age.

Brown, a member of the U. of I. dairy science faculty since 1954, when he received his doctorate from the University of Maryland, will talk about development of the rumen (paunch) in calves.

Olson, a member of the SIU School of Agriculture faculty since 1954, will give information on feeding and managing heifers from six months of age to freshening. Mrs. E. J. Thompson, Mrs. Warren Priest, Mrs. Lawrence Caluffetti, Mrs. Ronnie Doerge, and Mrs. J. R. Hunter.

Comiskey Claims Yankee-Kansas Trade Will Cost Half Million Attendance

CHICAGO — Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox believes the 13-player trade between New York and the Kansas City Athletics means the Yankees "will clinch the pennant" a little earlier this season.

Critical of the trade, Comiskey said it would cost the American League "at least half a million" in attendance this season.

"It'll hurt every club in the league, Kansas City and New York, as well as the rest of us," moaned Comiskey.

"All it means is that the Yankees will clinch the pennant a little earlier, and when they start pulling away, the attendance will start dropping."

"Last year when the Yanks started moving away in mid-August," he said, "the attendance fell off everywhere, and this year it'll just happen a little earlier. And Kansas City didn't get enough to finish in the first division."

"The pitchers—they got couldn't pitch last year and they won't this year," said the young White Sox executive.

"Why Mickey McDermott pitched against us one game here last year," he said, "and didn't get two men out and the other pitchers weren't any better."

Comiskey, however, had high praise for Art Ditmar and his work against the Sox, and possibly was worried about him as a much improved hurler in a Yankee suit.

The Sox vice president said New York wanted Ditmar or two Washington pitchers—Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual—to bolster their right-handed throwing.

Comiskey felt the infielders picked up by the A's won't make the grade, even with the last place contender.

Milt Graf, he said, wouldn't take over second base for the A's from Curt Roberts. He labelled Billy Hunter as "too erratic" to step into the shoes of veteran Joe DeMaestri at shortstop.

Galatia in Finals of Independent Tourney

Galatia will play for the championship of the Herrin independent basketball tournament this evening.

In semifinal play Wednesday Galatia won a thriller from West Frankfort 56-55 and tonight will face the winner of the other semifinal game, featuring Murphysboro and Carbondale New Era. Result of the game was not available.

UPSET STRATEGY? — Gordon Lambert, Southern Illinois University captain from Marion, confers with SIU Coach Lynn Holder concerning the SIU Western Illinois game at Carbondale Saturday night, Feb. 23. Western's only league losses in the 1954-55 and 1955-56 seasons were to Southern on the SIU court. Holder and Lambert believe another upset may be in the making. It will be Southern's final home game. The Salukis host Illinois Normal Friday night, Feb. 22. (SIU Photo Service)

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

To correct an error in a tournament story, appearing in Wednesday's Daily Register we want to say that Harrisburg definitely will play in the regional tournament at Norris City, starting Tuesday, March 5.

Yesterday's Register carried a tourney story, including the complete playing schedule, but in some way one line was left out of the story. That line carried game 4 of the tourney, Harrisburg vs. McLeansboro, starting about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 6.

Not long after the Register "hit the street," telephone calls were received wanting to know "Why was the Harrisburg game omitted from the story?"

It was all a mistake. Just who made it we don't know, and even if we did would hesitate to publicly put the finger on anyone. Might have been me!

New Shawneetown and Ridgway will play for the grade school championship of the Gallatin county basketball tournament this evening, with New Haven and Equality opening the night's play for consolation honors.

The tournament started Monday night with eight teams entered. Monday New Shawneetown beat St. Joe of Ridgway 55-32 and Equality won from Omaha 35-26. Tuesday's results: New Haven 43, Junction 12; Ridgway 36, Old Shawneetown 35. In semifinal play

Bull Dogs Play Mt. Vernon Here In South Seven Finale Friday Night

Locals Will Meet Johnston City Saturday

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, a basketball team with seven wins and 14 losses, wind up their regular season this week-end with two games at home.

The locals, presently sixth with two loop wins and nine defeats in the very tough South Seven conference, will finish in that spot regardless of other outcomes.

Benton has finished its loop season with a single win and 11 losses for seventh place, and fifth place Marion, with its four wins and seven losses, cannot be touched by the Bull Dogs.

The Mt. Vernon Rams will be the local opposition in the Friday night game and this will be the South Seven finale for Harrisburg. Then Saturday night Johnston City comes here as Harrisburg winds up the season prior to tournament play.

Bowed in Previous Tilt, 78-58

In their initial encounter with the Rams at Mt. Vernon Jan. 12, the Bull Dogs found themselves confronting the biggest front line in the conference—Williams, Neal and Hopkins—and although the locals played good ball in the first half they had to give 'way to the height. Final count was 78-58.

Harrisburg had its most illustrious night of the season at Johnston City Dec. 15. That evening the Bull Dogs trounced the Indians, 95 to 64, as they ran up their biggest count and biggest margin of the year.

But Johnston City is better now and the Bull Dogs cannot rest on their last December's laurels. The Indians have improved greatly of late, winning some ball games and playing some good teams close games. In fact, last week they were beaten by the strong Herrin Tigers only 59 to 48. So if the Bull Dogs are a bit lackadaisical, they could wind up the season with an upset loss before home folk.

More Interest Being Shown

The Bull Dogs have won three straight ball games now and the crowds are picking up and more interest is being shown as the season nears an end. There were good-sized and enthusiastic local delegations at both Benton and Eldorado last week.

The high school has been making a special effort to get bigger crowds out for the rest of the season and the results showed up the last two games.

The Bull Dogs have played good and interesting ball for the most part under Coach John Dotson this year. They have played a number of good ball games close—including those against Centralia, Marion, West Frankfort and Carbondale—which could have gone this way.

In fact, about the only time the Bull Dogs haven't looked pretty good or good in losing were in the two games against Herrin, the first game, against Carrier Mills and the games in the Egyptian holiday tournament.

For a large part of the season Harrisburg played a good, fast-moving game, but had troubles in hitting the basket and rebounding. Of late the shooting has picked up and the biggest trouble has been in the rebounding department because of lack of height.

Other Games

There will be two other South Seven contests Friday night—Centralia at West Frankfort in a battle of the third and second place teams, and Marion at Herrin against the league-leaders.

Other contests on Friday's card: Metropolis at Eldorado, Cave-in-Rock at Galatia, Equality at Rosiclare, Du Quoin at McLeansboro, Chester at Sparta, Murphysboro at Benton, Johnston City at Zeigler, Ridgway at Pope County, Shawneetown at Enfield, Vienna at Kar-nak, Fairfield at Norris City and Steelville at Attucks.

Saturday night will find Eldorado at Carrier Mills, Canton at Centralia, Attucks at Shawnee Unit and Mt. Carmel at Mt. Vernon.

South Seven standings:

Team	Won	Lost
Herrin	10	1
West Frankfort	9	2
Centralia	7	4
Mt. Vernon	6	5
Marion	4	7
Harrisburg	2	9
Benton	1	11

Alvin Dark Wins Golf Tourney

LAKE WORTH, Fla. — Alvin Dark of the St. Louis Cardinals may be nearing the end of his major league career, but from the way he has been shooting golf of late he might have little trouble making the transition from the baseball diamond to the golf links.

The slender shortstop, who may lose his job as a regular with the Cardinals because of wear and advanced age, fired a four-over-par 74 Wednesday to win the 54-hole Cavalcade of Champions golf tournament with a 218 — seven strokes better than his nearest rival.

Pitcher Lou Kretlow of the Kansas City Athletics finished second to Dark with a 225 total. He fired a 73 in the final round, as only 12 major leaguers turned out.

Different Attack

The Antarctic, or brown, skua gull, will attack a man from any direction, but the great skua of the North Atlantic will attack only from the rear.

Semifinal Play Tonight in State Junior Hi Tourney

Mt. Vernon will play Grayville and Johnston City meets Benton in semifinal play in the Junior high school state basketball tournament being played at Herrin. The semifinals will be played this evening and the championship games are scheduled for Friday night.

Results of games played Wednesday:

Grayville 49, Bridgeport 44.
Mt. Vernon 44, Centralia 37.
Johnston City 71, Rosiclare 30.
Benton 48, Carbondale 44.

Best Gate Since '31 for Basilio-Saxton Fight

CLEVELAND — Friday night's gate for the Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton welterweight title "rubber match" will range between $110,000 and $150,000, the biggest fight gate here in 26 years.

"It will be the biggest since Max Schmeling defended his heavyweight title against Young Stribling here in 1931," Promoter Larry Atkins predicted. "Schmeling and Stribling, fighting outdoors, drew 37,396 fans and $349,415."

Champion Basilio and ex-champ Saxton of New York are tangleing indoors for the third time. The crowd will range between 11,000 and a capacity of 12,700 at the Cleveland Arena, the promoter said. Ticket prices range from $5 to $20.

Atkins has been pleasantly surprised by the heavy sale for this scheduled 15-round, nationally televised and broadcast bout. It was originally slated for Jan. 18, but was postponed five weeks because the champion suffered a bruised right hand in training. A postponement usually cuts down the gate.

Cleveland had several previous TV-radio bouts, but this is the first time it ever had a local blackout. Despite it, the TV-radio money is $60,000.

Basilio of Chittenango, N. Y., is favored at 13-5 to register his second victory over streamlined Saxton in their series of three title fights, despite the fact he has been training with a tender hand. Saxton recaptured the 147-pound crown from Carmen in their first engagement on a questionable decision, at Chicago, last March 14. But Basilio won it back from Johnny on a ninth-round TKO at Syracuse, N. Y., last Sept. 12.

Ladies to the Rescue Men Don't Know How to Buy Shirts

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
BELTSVILLE, Md.—(NEA)—If your husband happens to be short and dumpy, get him a shirt with a sharp-pointed collar. It will make him look taller.

If he's thin with a sharp nose, try spread collars with round points to beef him up.

That's the advice Miss Clarice Scott gives to ladies who have the chore of picking out hubby's shirts.

Here at the U. S. Department of Agriculture Research Service, Miss Scott is a trouble-shooting clothing specialist. In addition to ladies' garments, she knows about everything there is to know about men's clothes.

"When I see the way some men dress I wish I didn't know anything," she laughs.

Recently she completed a study of men's shirts for a publication soon to come off the government's presses. The booklet is called, "Men's Shirts—A Guide to Quality."

"I talked to wives out here," she says, "and asked them if they would bring in some old shirts for me to study."

Contributions of old shirts were overwhelming. In fact, Miss Scott got so many that it was a problem to dispose of them after the study was finished.

She also bought a selection of shirts in retail stores and informally asked a number of husbands and wives for their complaints about shirts.

Here are some of the things she Pointed collars on shirts best fit the man with the broad face, she advises wives.

If your husband has a lean face with a sharp nose, rounded collars are the best for him.

selects a collar that's too high and round, it makes him look fatter. He should look for low-set collars to counteract a thick, short neck.

When buying inexpensive shirts, Miss Scott advises men or their wives to make a careful selection and not just grab three shirts off the counter. In a pile of shirts of identical material and style, some are likely to be better cut and made than others.

If your husband has a heavy beard, it's best not to buy soft, oxford cloth shirts. A rough neck and chin will make the shirts fuzzy around the edge of the collar, according to Miss Scott.

In addition to shirts, she is an expert on suits. She has recently revised an Agriculture Department booklet on how to judge the quality of men's suits.

In this study she bought inexpensive, medium and high grade suits from manufacturers and gave them a careful going over.

"We ripped them apart and examined all the inside material and construction," she says.

Now that Miss Scott has wound up her research on men's clothing for the time being, she's investigating what garments are best for partially disabled women.

Inhabitants of ancient Sybaris, a Greek city in southern Italy, were noted for their luxurious living and self-indulgence.

discovered in her shirt survey:

"Many men do not know their correct shirt sizes," she explains. "They disregard the few extra pounds they have put on since college days, and extra weight tends to thicken a man's neck."

As a result, shirts are too tight around the collar and will wear out faster.

Miss Scott also thinks men do not give enough attention to collar styles.

"They hesitate to pick out what's becoming to them and that's foolish," she says. "They should wear collars that suit them."

Authorize Institute at SIU To Help Solve Labor Problems

CARBONDALE, Ill.—A campus agency designed to help solve labor problems is one of three new institutes authorized for Southern Illinois University.

The SIU board of trustees approved proposed plans for a Labor Institute, a Latin American Institute, and a Rehabilitation Institute at a meeting Tuesday.

The Labor Institute will offer a consulting service on labor and industrial relations, conduct research and special surveys of interest to unions and to management, and provide special courses for industrial personnel and labor groups. It also will map study programs for students seeking careers in this field.

Exchange of students between the United States and Latin America will be one of the aims of the Latin American Institute. It will offer courses through existing University departments which would allow students to major in this field, and the Institute would direct special conferences and programs aimed at better understanding of Latin American countries. Information on employment opportunities in Latin America will be collected and similar information will be made available to Latin Americans who wish to remain in this country.

The Rehabilitation Institute will have among its functions the improvement of training for college students and field workers serving the handicapped. This Institute would work closely with community agencies and undertake theoretical and practical research bearing on the methods and techniques used in rehabilitating the handicapped.

In the past several years, the SIU board of trustees also has created a Small Business Institute and a Community Development Institute. Like these, the new institutes will draw upon existing University departments for instruction, research and educational services. Each is headed by a director, but other staff associates are present faculty members in fields of related interest.

Measles Cases

Climbing in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Measles cases in Illinois are climbing steadily, but so far are well behind 1956 levels, the State Health Department said Saturday.

The department reported a total of 1,865 cases in the state through Feb. 15, compared with 5,087 cases for the same period last year.

The department said the Springfield and Rockford areas apparently have the heaviest outbreaks this year.

J. L. Steinmarch Spends Many Hours in Operating Housing Projects in County

"It's more than just a pleasure to talk about the Saline County Housing authority and its accomplishments," declared J. L. Steinmarch, executive secretary of the housing authority, recently at his offices at the Dorrisville development.

"Sometimes it might seem to my family I am almost married to my job, because of the many, many hours I spend working out the problems associated with this kind of work; but frankly I can see such a need for these projects that I am dedicated to do the job to the best of my ability."

Mr. Steinmarch declared that from the very beginning of the projects five years ago, when he was hired because of his experience in the construction field, he had had the opportunity to observe just how they were planned.

He is hired by the housing authority commissioners. At present there are four on the board, with one vacancy. They are Chairman John Murphy of Eldorado, and Walter Russell, Aaron Allen and Paul Lewis of Galatia. Commissioners are appointed periodically by the chairman of the Saline County Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Steinmarch is responsible to the commission, and under the executive director are seven other employees.

First of the six developments in Saline county was built in 1952 at Eldorado with 64 units at a cost of $700,000.

Then came the two in Harrisburg, the 94-unit project in Dorrisville at a cost of a million dollars and the 22-unit Byington Addition project at a cost of $300,000, both built in 1953.

Also built in 1953 and 1954 were two projects in Carrier Mills and one in Galatia. The 18-unit project at Carrier Mills was built at a cost of $165,000, the six-unit development at a cost of $65,000.

At Galatia, a ten-unit project was built for approximately $100,000.

To date the county has received from the housing authority a total of $13,300 from shelter rentals in lieu of taxes and Mr. Steinmarch estimates that a minimum of $5,000 will be turned over to the county each year from these rentals.

"An average of $65,000 rentals are handled each year and these are used to maintain the buildings, pay salaries and pay the interest and principles on bonds," he stated.

"Each year bonds are re-funded, thereby saving thousands of dollars in interest," he stated. "On February 14, $550,000 in new bonds were issued and sold immediately to investors at an interest rate of 2.05 per cent."

Mr. Steinmarch pointed out that before projects in Harrisburg and Eldorado were officially authorized it was necessary that official action from the city authorities be taken to eliminate certain undesirable and dilapidated houses—one for each unit to be constructed by the housing authority.

"This would cause the adjoining and nearby property located near these wrecks to increase in value, but the main object was to improve living conditions for people who from necessity were forced to live in these houses," he stated.

"This program was to have been completed within five years," he continued. "Headway has been made, practically 60 per cent having been accomplished, but there is still more to be done and it is with a great deal of satisfaction when I can say that the officials of both cities are now giving full and complete co-operation in this project."

"Present rents range from $15 to $60, based entirely upon the income of the renter, unless the occupant's rent is based on a welfare schedule." He said basic requirements for renters are: (a) Income classified as low or moderate; (b) family composition; (c) housing need; and (d) service connection.

A November, 1956, census revealed that approximately 900 persons are residents of the authority developments in the county.

"Needless to say, there are the unusual personal problems where a large group of people live so close together," he stated. "But it gives me a real pleasure to say that at no time have we had a problem that couldn't be solved with just a bit of common sense injected."

"The premises of all projects are kept under strict supervision and though no direct effort to supervise the personal lives of the people is made, we ask for exemplary conduct and when co-operation is not given the occupants are requested to find housing elsewhere."

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO

by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood and Grape Vine: Dean Martin's still at bat slugging away verbally at ex-partner Jerry Lewis for his "I've Always Been Scared" for magazine article, but he says he won't dip his pen in acid for an official published reply. Even if Jerry has removed all photos of Dean, he hears, from his home.

"I've been asked to tell all," Dean told me, "but I don't want to be an idiot. I have no axe to grind. Let Jerry go on being an idiot. He's just hurting himself."

Dean was silent about their bust-up until he read Jerry's quotes about him — "He talks about my wife and that's going too far."

Despite his open cracks about Dean, Jerry often has been quoted as saying he'll take the real secret of their parting "to the grave."

"He means," Dean told me, "the real secret is this—I was a nice guy—and he won't admit it."

PRELUDE TO FIREWORKS: Zsa Zsa Gabor and sister Eva working together on the same movie lot for the first time. It's an eye opener, too, that Zsa Zsa's being directed in "Stalin Is Alive!" by Russell Birdwell, a onetime press agent who incurred her wrath by releasing the story that Great Lover Rubirosa blacked her eye.

A movie doll who thought Vic Mature was a "big egotistical jerk" has changed her mind after costarring with him. Blonde Karen Steele is the young lady and she's even had several dates with the big man. "But it's not a romance or anything like that," she insists. "We're just good friends."

Karon winced when she was cast as Vic's costar in "The Sharkfighters."

"I'd heard things about him and I was convinced he was a big egotistical jerk," she told me at a CBS-TV rehearsal. "Now I'm ashamed of myself because I can't say enough good things about him. He treated me like a lady, he helped me with my dialogue, showed me into closeups and taught me a lot of camera tricks. I was so ashamed of myself, in fact, that I told Vic the whole story about my fears—and how I was convinced he was a jerk.

"His reply was: 'Honey, you're not alone.'"

THERE'S A BIG MGM musical in Bing Crosby's future—he green lights the script—as a follow-up to his nonwarbling role in "Man on Fire." "Going Hollywood," in 1933, was Bing's first MGM tune film and the show's hit song was "Temptation." Yup, the same one Perry Como's warbling these days.

Scene of the week: A big Christmas office party in "The Desk Set." After several rounds of cheer, Katharine Hepburn sings "Night and Day," accompanied by Spencer Tracy on the bongo drums.

F. Scott Fitzgerald's famed unfinished novel, "The Last Tycoon," becomes a Playhouse 90 TV show sometime in March with Jack Palance considering the role of the movie executive. He completes MGM's "House of Numbers" in time for the show which would have starred Humphrey Bogart had he lived. The TV show will end where the uncompleted novel ends—in the middle of a love scene.

HOT TIP DEPT: "Check this," whispered a Hollywoodsman. "Those I Love Elvin and I Hate Elvis buttons are made by the same company—and Elvis collects royalties on BOTH buttons."

This tip was checked with the Presley crowd. There are 32 different commercial products on the market bearing Presley's name on which he collects. But I was told Love and Hate buttons are not on list. Darn it.

Lana Turner's TV debut on Bob Hope's NBC show will have her laughing it up with Bob in a comedy sketch and also singing. The teaming, I hear, may be a cue for a costarring movie.

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse represent Conquest, Death, Famine and Slaughter.

Dick Shawn in Demand by TV, Night Clubs

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Shawn, comic, singer, dancer, actor and writer, is on the brink.
“My only problem is,” said Shawn, “the brink of what?”
Shawn, a 29-year-old alumnus of Buffalo, N. Y., and the borscht belt, currently is being romanced by NBC-TV. The network wants Shawn to front a situation comedy.
Steve Allen wants Shawn for a series of summer guest shots on his own NBC-TV Sunday show. CBS-TV’s “Playhouse 90” is mulling over a Shawn script. “Elvis Is a Nice Name,” in which Shawn would star. And nightclubs, some of them dangling $7,500 a week, also are making a pitch.
“NBC has offered me two formats for a series,” explained Shawn. “One is about a show business character and I’ve turned it down. I felt it wouldn’t sustain after the first two or three weeks.”

“The second one, I like better. It’s a Ring Lardner series, ‘You Know Me, Al.’ I’d be a baseball player. The thing I like about it is it doesn’t depend upon gags. And they would shift the locale around.”
Although Shawn has knocked around in the funny business for eight years, he has hit it big only within the past three seasons. He has limited his TV work to occasional shots on the Ed Sullivan show and a couple of Max Liebman spectacles.
“TV is murder on routines,” said Shawn. “I’ve got six strong routines, but how can I go on doing them in TV?”
The only way out, Shawn figures, is to keep his talent diversified. “TV just kills the comics off. You have to be an entertainer to survive. I’m kind of bugged on that subject. If you limit yourself to just telling jokes you’re dead.”

John Bromfield gives a surprise kiss to Rosemarie Bowe in this scene from “The Big Bluff,” released by United Artists, to show at the Grand tonight only.

Coal production per man will rise 2 to 4.5 tons from the present 10-tons-per-man level by the beginning of 1960 according to Key-stone Coal Buyers Manual. This expansion in output directly reflects greater mechanization of mining operations.

Three railroads serving the Hampton Roads, Va., export coal trade (Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Virginian) are spending $230,000,000 for new coal cars, power, coal dumpers and other facilities to accelerate coal movement abroad.

Labor's Controversial Dave Beck

Friends Call Him
Civil Leader,
Enemies a Czar

By RICHARD H. SYRING
NEA Special Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash.—(NEA)—Being in Europe while a U. S. Senate committee investigating labor racketeers sought him for questioning isn't exactly what Dave Beck, president of the International Teamsters Union, planned as a highlight to his 33 years with the union.

Rich—by his own admission in a tax bracket which leaves him almost disinterested in increasing his income—jowly-jawed, blue-eyed Dave Beck most passionately seeks respectability. As he approaches his 63rd birthday on June 16, he'd much rather be known as an elder labor statesman, a national and civic leader.

Here in Seattle his friends point to Dave Beck the civic leader.

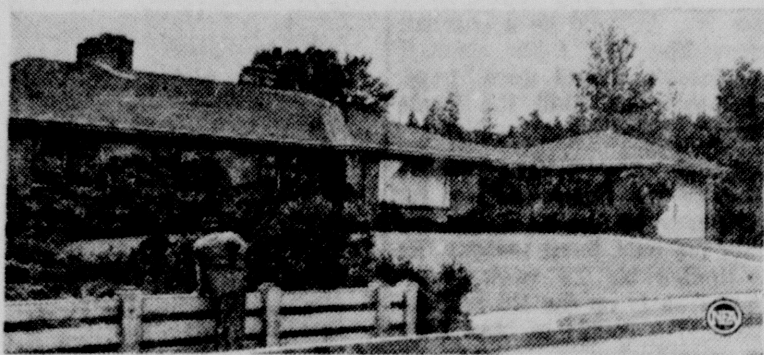

He has served as president of the University of Washington Board of Regents, head of the Seattle Civil Service Commission, exalted ruler of the Seattle Elks. He headed a drive to save an Episcopal cathedral, and was a moving force behind the building of a new high school memorial stadium.

He had Washington State teamsters record voices of boys shipped to the South Pacific during World War II and saw to it that the relatives received the record. In 1953 the City of Hope, Calif., gave him its Torch Award after the teamsters donated $100,000 to a hospital building campaign.

Right now, most Washington State communities may listen to radio concerts of the Seattle Symphony. This is at the courtesy of the teamsters, and good-sized newspaper display ads tell them so.

Beck's enemies, and they are legion, will tell you how he rules his 1,400,000-member union with the iron fist of a czar. How he has become immensely wealthy, how questionable characters dominate parts of his vast empire, how he has raided other unions, refusing to sign the no-raid pledge, or how he has attempted to regulate industry through his teamsters.

In the last several years many public questions have been asked, especially after it was revealed that the International had purchased from Beck his 12-room home on the shores of Lake Washington for $163,215. This permanent residence for the $50,000-plus-a-year president of the teamsters includes a heated outdoor swimming pool.

At the time Beck said he didn't think the revelation "was news" and "no precedent was set" because his predecessor, the late Daniel J. Tobin, had residences provided for him in Massachusetts and Florida.

On March 31, 1956, the Seattle Times reported that real estate transactions show that Beck sold Seattle property worth $890,715, including the house, in the previous 10 months.

Explaining his finances, he has said: "The answer to how Beck made his money is: Beck borrowed the money."

Being accused of being a racketeer is not new to Beck. In an interview with Larry Smyth, political editor of the Oregon Journal, on Oct. 10, 1936—more than 20 years ago—he denied being a racketeer or using his teamsters to accomplish any kind of racket. At that time farmers and grangers were up in arms at teamster tactics.

Beck's defense then: "Just put the telephone book under your arm and pick any business using trucks, and ask them about us."

An appraisal of Beck was made more than 20 years ago by Richard L. Neuberger, a writer who is now one of Oregon's Democratic U. S. Senators. In a 1936 issue of the now-defunct magazine "Ken," Neuberger said, in part:

"Only the Pacific Northwest could produce a labor leader like Dave Beck. No place in the country except this country's last great frontier could give him the latitude and elbow room for the activities that have made him the most unusual union boss in America today.

"Beck regulates the milk industry in Seattle, and frankly admits that without his regulation every dairy in the region would become insolvent in two weeks. He supervises automobile and fruit shipments along the Pacific Coast."

Whether Beck regulates industry is for the U. S. Senate committee tee to decide. But there are few teamsters, big shots and little shots, who won't admit their president regulates them. Teamsters making up the Western Conference of Teamsters recall the regional meetings—punctuality, everyone in attendance, no drinking, all business.

Beck doesn't drink or smoke.

This half-Irish, German-English labor leader came up the hard way. Born in Stockton, Calif., he was moved to Seattle at the age of three.

"My earliest interest in the labor movement," he says, "is from my mother working in the laundry. I remember the long hours waiting for her."

"I took a cut to $45 a week and $15 a week car expenses to go to work for the union in 1924," Beck has recalled. That was his first job with the teamsters—secretary-treasurer, Laundry & Dye Drivers, local No. 566, Seattle.

This was the start of his rise to the $50,000-plus-a-year presidency of the teamsters.

Saline Baptist Ass'n Notes

Rev. LeRoy Marvel is in a revival at the Mission of the Raleigh Baptist church in New Haven. There have been 17 professions of faith and additions to the church to date in this second week. Rev. Howard Todd Taylor, pastor of the Mission, is the singer for the services.

Dr. H. L. Waters of the Seminary Extension Center in Harrisburg and Rev. Ernest Ammon, director of the Center and Association Missionary, attended a special workshop meeting at Carbondale Tuesday and Wednesday. Other officers and teachers from all over the state of Illinois were present. The Southwestern chairman, Dr. Lee Gallaman, directed the meeting.

A special Baptist youth meeting will be held Saturday at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist church in Eldorado. Rev. Ray Pady of Shawneetown will be in charge of the program. Public invited.

Women Gladly Pay For Labor Savers

WASHINGTON — One supermarket official says today's home-maker is fully aware that food labor-savers cost her more money. But she's happy to have things that way.

This was the comment of Rilea Doe, (of Safeway Stores), during the annual meeting of the National Association of Food Chains.

"Human needs are fairly stable," said Doe. "Human wants are never stable, never regimented, never static. Today they are ballooning."

Doe said that the number of food products competing for the housewives' dollar may total as high as 6,000 a year. He pointed out that many of them had "built-in" features which save preparation time and the need for the cooking knowledge that made grandmother's cooking famous—but exhausting.

"Today's housewife," he said, "has a sneaking suspicion that all this labor-saving costs more money, and it does. But she, like Scarlett O'Hara prefers to worry about that tomorrow."

Heart Drive In Final Week

The annual Heart Fund campaign of the Illinois Heart association begins its final week today, with the drive closing Feb. 28.

Mrs. R. W. Rankin, Heart Fund chairman for Harrisburg, said, "Many businesses, clubs and individuals have already sent in their contributions as a result of a letter sent to them earlier this month. We hope the others who received letters asking their support of the Heart Fund will try to get their contribution in before the campaign ends."

It was pointed out by Mrs. Rankin, that heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States today, including Illinois where 54,488 of the 95,585 deaths were due to cardiovascular diseases. In other words, more than 57 percent of the deaths were caused by heart diseases, according to the latest statistics available from the Illinois Department of Public Health.

"Despite this startling death toll," continued the chairman, "There is new hope for hearts. Research has made it possible to save many lives the past few years, which just a short time ago would have been lost because science did not have the answers. Physicians can now prevent rheumatic fever (forerunner of rheumatic heart disease) . . . prevent bacterial infection of the heart lining (formerly almost 100 percent fatal) . . . perform surgery to repair congenital heart defects and valvular damage . . . replace sections of diseased blood vessels with artery grafts . . . and prescribe new drugs which lower blood pressure, bringing relief to thousands."

More funds will make possible vital research studies now held up for lack of aid, according to Mrs. Rankin, and will enable medical science to attract and train promising young scientists for careers in heart research.

Is TV Robbing Public On Opera? Mel Star Jean Madeira Thinks So

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—As far as opera on TV goes, the American public is getting robbed. And Mel Star Jean Madeira, who makes this statement, isn't talking about the opera-loving public.

"No, I mean the average person who doesn't know or care about opera," says the tall, striking brunette. "They're getting robbed—well, maybe deprived is a better word."

The way Miss Madeira figures it, the opera that is presented on TV isn't calculated to make an average, unacquainted-with-opera viewer like the stuff.

"The NBC Opera Theater," she says, "presents off-beat, unusual operas that are way above the heads of most people. And on Ed Sullivan's show and that sort of inhibited, I pull no punches." This could make "Peyton Place" seem like "Little Women."

One of the newest heartthrobs among TV singers is Arthur Godfrey's latest discovery, Danny Costello. Danny's background is unique—it's almost a Horatio Alger story, except for one thing.

"It isn't a success story yet," Danny says, "because I'm not a success yet. A couple of times last year my wife and I were down to our last $20—and we've got two kids."

Excusing that minor detail, the story is a natural for "This Is Your Life" or "True Confessions" or some similar outlet.

Costello is a Jersey City boy. And he grew up as a baseball nut. He was good, too. As a southpaw pitcher, he signed for a $3,500 bonus at 16 with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He had two 14-6 years in Class D leagues, then went 9-11 with a last place club (Augusta) in the Sally League and won a promotion to New Orleans in the Southern Association.

But he broke his arm—his pitching arm. So badly that he was told he could never pitch again. He took his last $600 and went on a week-long bender. Then he faced facts—he could never pitch again, but he had to go on living. He was only 20. His wife (he'd met her when she played third base in a semi-pro girls' softball league in Tallahassee that he watched) started working on him to sing. He'd had no experience, except for choir work at home.

He started singing with small bands around New Jersey. Somebody heard him and sent him to Ray Bloch, who became his manager. He got on "Chance of a Lifetime," won for six weeks in a thing, when they do any opera they do an excerpt in the original language.

"They should do opera in English, so the people know what's going on. And it should be sung by young, good-looking American singers. The public will like opera—if they can understand it."

Coming from a bigtime Met star, this doctrine may seem revolutionary. Most opera singers are purists—any deviation from the original score is looked on as horrible meddling. But Miss Madeira says her view is shared by most of the Met's growing roster of American singers.

"They prefer singing an opera in the original," she says, "but they feel doing them in English would help to popularize them."

Dinah Shore sang at a concert with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. When friends congratulated her on the good reviews she got, she said, "Please don't encourage pop singers joining up with symphonies. Next thing you know Elvis Presley will be singing at La Scala."

Errol Flynn is the latest show business personality to be writing an autobiography, between work on his new "Errol Flynn Theatre" TV film show.

"It is," he says, "completely un-row and invested his winnings in a nightclub act—material, costumes, etc. Then came "Talent Scouts" and Godfrey liked him and uses him every few weeks on his shows.

And there's a semi-hit record—"Like a Brook Gets Lost in a River" on the Caravan label—and things seem ready to break for Danny.

It isn't a success story—yet.

In this era when quiz show winners are the popular heroes, there's even some adoration left over for quiz show losers. Like Alfred Einfeld, who muffed the $64,000 question on his category, geography. Einfeld writes from Cleveland, Tenn., where he stopped over on his mournful trip back to California.

"I pulled into a Cadillac agency to wait for a sudden storm to blow over. The service manager knew me—no charge for change of oil and lubrication and a full gas tank. They had me on the town's only radio station for 15 minutes. They took me to a Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner. I checked into the Cherokee Hotel (for free) and got interviewed for the local paper, pictures and all. Tomorrow a free breakfast and I'll be on my way."

Use of Zone Numbers Urged By Postmaster

Postmaster A. M. Hetherington today urged all Harrisburg area mailers to use postal zone numbers when writing to individuals or firms in large cities.

"Nation-wide experience of the Post Office Department shows," Postmaster Hetherington said, "that some types of mailings gain as much as 8 or 10 hours by using zone numbers, because zoned mail can be sorted more quickly. When you use the Postal Delivery Zone System you reduce the number of times your mail is handled and thereby expedite its delivery."

Mr. Hetherington pointed out that the delivery zone system has been in use in this country since 1943 and has proved itself by many years of service. "One hundred and six major cities over the nation are zoned for delivery," the postmaster explained, "and these 106 cities handle about half the nation's annual mail load of 58 billion pieces."

Midwestern cities where zone numbers should be included are: Chicago, Illinois; Evansville, Indianapolis and South Bend, Indiana; Des Moines and Sioux City, Iowa; Kansas City and Wichita, Kansas; Louisville, Kentucky; Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing, Michigan; Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota; Kansas City and St. Louis, Missouri; Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown, Ohio; Madison and Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Postmaster Hetherington recommends the following specific steps for the benefit of local mailers:

- (1) Mailers in Harrisburg who send considerable mail to major cities, where zone numbers are in use, may obtain zone directories for those cities by writing the Division of Post Office Services, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C.
- (2) When writing your correspondents ask what their postal delivery zone number is, and if they have one always use it.
- (3) Business leaders are urged to issue instructions to all typists and personnel engaged in correspondence to use zone numbers wherever necessary.

SIU Lifts Ban on Political Groups

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Partisan political activity will henceforth be permitted among student groups on the Southern Illinois University campus.

The SIU board of trustees lifted a seven-year ban on campus political organizations at its meeting Tuesday. Up to now, students have been encouraged to join political groups off the campus, but they were not permitted to organize on the campus.

The SIU board action followed a recommendation by the Joint Council of Higher Education that student political groups be recognized by colleges and universities if they represent parties legal in the state of Illinois and meet the same requirements applied to other campus clubs.

Car of Tomorrow?

Sealed-In Motorist with Radar in Back

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
DETROIT—(NEA)—Here's a peek at some of this town's best-kept secrets:

Auto engines will be so powerful only one forward speed is needed. Cars will be so low you'll have to enter partly through the roof.

Passengers will be sealed in completely air-conditioned interiors. Seats will be ventilated. Radar warning devices will prevent rear-end collisions. Cars will look more and more like guided missiles.

This is not "dream car" stuff, either.

These innovations will be showing up on new models within the next few years.

This information comes from Victor G. Raviolo, Ford's director of engineering research. Chrysler and General Motors experts confirm most of these trends. Raviolo says:

"We can expect at least a 25 per cent and possibly as much as a 40 per cent increase in horsepower in the next few years. This will permit the use of a transmission of different character. Large engines with a hydrodynamic torque converter and a reverse gear will replace today's complex assembly with a three speed and reverse gear box."

Deterioration of service available to car owners in the past few years will be reflected in the new cars. "I expect sealed transmissions and axle, and lifetime lubricated chassis components that would not be serviced," he says.

If you think the '57 models are low—between 57 and 61 inches—drop your sights for the ones coming up. Manufacturers and customers alike desire this because low cars are safer to drive, look faster and are faster because of reduced wind resistance.

The minimum height of a car, theoretically, is about 51 inches, and within the next 10 years all models will be close to that, Raviolo claims. This provides seven inches for ground clearance, five inches for leg room, 36 inches for torso height and three inches for head clearance.

"With these lower heights, we can't get into the side too well, and we must develop access at least partially through the top," he explains.

"The solution is the auxiliary roof door," he insists, referring to a side door which includes part of the roof also opening up. The foreign-made Mercedes 300 SCL has such a door.

Windows in the coming cars will be sealed but provided with an emergency release. They will be made flush with the skin of the car for better streamlining. This will also help reduce noise.

"Wind noises resulting from the use of movable windows are a major nuisance at high speed," he explains. "Heat will be added or removed as required and clear filtered air will also be supplied mechanically."

Raviolo's men are now working on revolutionary changes in seats. Ventilation through the seat is at first only likely to show up on a few models. Seats will also be made more adjustable for individual needs. He does not think rearward facing seats for passengers will ever be popular.

Accident reports from the expressways and turnpikes reveal the growth of the rear-end collision. "The answer to this is a warning device which will operate so as to allow for safe deceleration," he reports. "All the elements for such a system are known and in use."

Believe Big Plant Assured for Massac County

METROPOLIS, Ill. (UP)—The Metropolis Industrial Committee said today location of a 10-million-dollar uranium salts plant in Massac County is virtually assured.

A committee spokesman said a formal announcement is expected within a few days from the Allied Chemical and Dye Corp., New York.

The spokesman quoted C. M. Brown, president of Allied Chemical, as saying in a telephone conversation today: "We cannot say that the final decision has been made. We can say that we are working on legal and technical aspects. These should all be cleared in the next several days. Barring some unforeseen circumstances, the plant will be located in Massac County."

The committee has been negotiating with the New York firm since last Nov. 21.

Allied Chemical would make the uranium salts for the Atomic Energy Commission. The plant would employ an estimated 280 to 400 persons.

Thinking
It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Everyone has faults. However the faults of the other person appear much greater than those of ourselves. As we look at others we compare their faults with our ideals or with our high standards of normalcy. We do not compare other people and their faults with our real selves and with our weaknesses.

We do not enjoy looking in the moral mirrors before us. In fact, as we look at ourselves we overlook many of the features which are obvious to others.

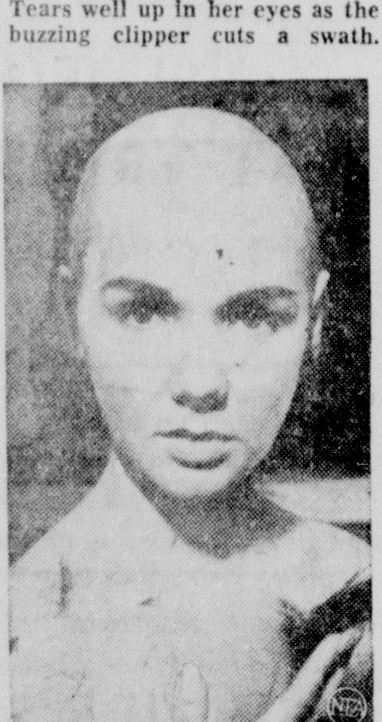

The Master met many self-satisfied people who were highly critical of their neighbors. They expected Jesus to join them in their fault-finding. Instead He advised them to remove the impediment from their own eyes before they tried to clarify the sight of others.

Modern humanity is not above reproach. It has not attained perfection. All of us have some faults to correct.

CAME THE SHORN—Many an actress has had a close shave in the movies, but probably none closer than that endured by Natalia Daryll, 24-year-old Russian actress, in her Hollywood debut. For her role in "The Secret Diary of Joseph Stalin," she has had her long black hair completely shaved off. Below are shown progressive stages as she sacrifices her crowning glory for possible screen glory.

The barber lathers her noggin, preliminary to the close shave.

And here's Natalia, bald as a Brynner, shorn lock in hand.

Radar would be involved in such a system.

On improvements in steering he says:

"Today we balance rim pressures on the steering wheel against the varying side forces on the car and so trace the desired track. Tomorrow our steering wheel will truly indicate the desired track and automatic servo-mechanisms will compensate for the side forces."

On future design he predicts:

"The customer is becoming more sophisticated about innovations of form such as the guided missile and as a result more ready to accept a functional design if finished and trimmed attractively."

Says 'Coffee Break'
More Frazzling Than Soothing to Nerves

NEW YORK (UP)—A physician editor told Americans today that the traditional "coffee break" may be frazzling more nerves than it soothes.

Dr. J. Dewitt Fox, writing in Life and Health, of which he is editor, said the amount of caffeine in one cup of coffee is equal to the dosage given by doctors "to stimulate a patient who has been in a coma, is intoxicated, or is otherwise in danger of collapse."

That's a strong dose, multiplied several times a day, for the average man or woman, Fox said.

The famous Eiffel Tower of Paris was built in 1889.

Want Promised Land
Hungarian Refugees in Europe
Are Dispirited and Disappointed

LONDON (UP)—Eighty-two Hungarian refugees living in a hostel in Newcastle, England, rioted and went on a hunger strike.

Five Hungarian refugees staged a sit-down strike at Pershore demanding $33 a week instead of $21 as laborers.

Refugees in a Swiss camp are demanding television sets, radios and cars "because this is in accordance with their high living standards."

Three hundred refugees fled their camp in France and trudged 30 miles along snowbound Alpine roads to Switzerland. They were turned back.

Two refugees walked out of a camp in Scotland and made their way to London. They begged the U. S. embassy to send them to America.

Thirteen Hungarian refugees ran away from a government mining school near Johannesburg, South Africa, fearing they were headed for "slave-labor" in Soviet-style uranium mines. They were victims of a cruel joke.

The electric thrill of the escape of 170,000 refugees from Hungary is over.

With the flush of escape at risk of death behind them, the tumultuous welcomes and the big hand-outs of food and clothing gone, the majority of refugees in Europe are dispirited, disappointed and disgruntled, a United Press survey shows.

George Free—that is not his real name—a refugee Hungarian journalist now in Britain says "there is ever-growing unrest and a feeling of discontent among Hungarians living in the camps."

"This feeling comes from their own conviction that their fight against communism meant a moral victory for the whole free world. The fair-minded Hungarians and the majority are of this type, are not demanding super-rights. But they expect a well-deserved human life in a free society."

Thousands of Hungarian refugees in Europe want to push onward to the promised lands, the United States and Canada.

The nation's gigantic road-building program will create a market for an additional 2,500,000 tons of coal, to be used in production of such road building supplies as steel, cement and asphalt.

Powhatan No. 3 Mine of the North American Coal Corp., largest deep mine in Ohio, has a daily capacity of 5,500 tons and in 1955 produced nearly 1,500,000 tons of bituminous coal.

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

Professor Charles Van Doren— He's TV's Unashamed Intellectual

CHARLES VAN DOREN, READER: Comic books, book lists.

By DICK KLEINER
—NEA Staff Correspondent—
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Charles Van Doren, an unashamed intellectual, is in the market for a wheelbarrow to carry his money. He'll need it to bring home his winnings—when and if he ever quits or gets knocked out of his TV role as a brainy glamor boy.
At the moment, after 11 weeks and 12 opponents on NBC-TV's "Twenty-One," he has amassed $138,000. Theoretically, he can go on until he gets beaten, bored or bounced off when the producers decide they need a new hero.
But he hasn't seen a penny of his take yet. "I'll get it in one lump sum," the 30-year-old Columbia University English instructor says. "And I guess I'll need a wheelbarrow to take it home."
The wheelbarrow will also come in handy for a trip to the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue. Of his $138,000, tax experts estimate he'll be able to keep around $34,000; the rest will go in federal and state income taxes. (This is assuming he remains single through '57—and he has no current plans for marriage.)
Van Doren's Columbia salary is $4,400 a year.

Money will be no problem to him ever after, should he choose the high road of show business that now seems open to him. He has offers from Hollywood, from television, from radio. The public has become entranced with his honest good looks, his soft voice, his warm smile. And he admits to a long-time fascination with acting.
"A show business career somewhat interests me," he says. "If I were less tired, I might be more interested."
He squints, squirms and beats his brow as he struggles for the answers on "Twenty-One." And no Oscar winner has a more charming smile than his winning beam.

The 11 weeks on the show have exhausted him, worn off 15 pounds from his 175-pound frame, deprived him of his privacy.
"Even if I decided it was best to go back to my former life," he says, "I don't know if it's possible any more. I think I've become a public figure."

He's right. It's a strange fate for a man of his background to find himself a TV star and a magazine cover boy.

Van Doren's family is famed in American literary, historical and poetic circles—his father, Mark, his mother, Dorothy, his late uncle, Carl, his aunt, Irita, all are intellectual celebrities.
Charles Lincoln Van Doren set out to follow them, except he never could make up his mind exactly what field was his. In college—and post-graduate work, here and abroad, he studied mathematics, English, music, astronomy, poetry, education and countless other subjects. This background, plus a fantastic memory, is what enables him to handle the show's varied categories.

Each week pits him against college professors, lawyers, and Ph.D.'s of assorted stripe. The winner is paid out of the loser's stake—if any—at the rate of $500 a point.

He has answered questions on baseball, musical comedy, queens, Shakespeare, seas, medicine, George Washington, art chemistry and history. There would seem to be no soft spots in his knowledge. But he says there are two categories he fears.

"I'm a little rocky about South America," he says, "but I did answer a high point question on that, so maybe I was wrong. The other is popular culture. Oh, I know something about the culture of the present, but with a subject so recent they're liable to ask very specific questions. So my reading these days are things like comic books and lists of the best sellers of the last 20 years and so on."

What makes Van Doren so successful, some think, is that despite his great store of knowledge he has the common touch.

"I'm not an egghead," he says. "I've got plenty of hair. Whenever anyone calls me an egghead, I like to quote Adlai Stevenson, when he said, 'Eggheads of the world unite—you have nothing to lose but your yokes.'"

"I'm not ashamed of being educated or intellectual. There's too much of that. I think it was Samuel Grafton who said that America is the only place in the world where two men could meet and talk and one man knows the definition of a word and the other doesn't and the one who does feels embarrassed. I think that is wrong."

He is not embarrassed by his public display of brilliance, but he did worry, at first, that he might show his ignorance. He entered the program originally purely for monetary gain.

"The idea of appearing successfully was very pleasant. But the idea of possibly making a fool of myself worried me. I waited four or five weeks to get up enough nerve to apply for the program. Then one Friday afternoon—I always feel relaxed on Friday afternoons—I'd been to the dentist and afterwards, I just went over and did it."

Now that the danger of making himself look foolish is over, the

Room to Escape TV Is Needed

CHICAGO —American homes should have a family room in which they can "get away from TV," says Albert White, a Lansing, Mich., builder.

In a panel discussion between leading builders, held in conjunction with the National Association of Home Builders Convention, the average home built in 1956 was criticized in several ways. The builders agreed, however, that the trend to family rooms is clearly established.

"I consider any home without a family room obsolete," said James T. Lendrum, director of the Small Homes Council, University of Illinois.

"There ought to be not only a TV room," said White, "but one to get away from TV."

The "average" home was one-story, rectangular in shape, had three bedrooms, one or one and one-half bathrooms, awning or double-hung windows, low pitched roofs, and was conservative in glass expanse.

Lendrum pointed out weaknesses in this home, among them a lack of enough terraces, porches, patios, and bathrooms.

Lendrum noticed that few homes provided kitchen exhaust fans, built-in ranges, and fewer than 10 per cent had garbage disposals.

A DOCTOR for BLUE JAY COVE

Today Lenoire had been buried. And Matt—why, he hadn't even gone to her funeral!

Cass struggled to get control of herself. "Last night," she gasped, "I did my level best to make Alex serve as pall bearer — for that woman."

Sue grinned a little. "He wouldn't want to," she agreed. "Where'd Alex go, Cass? He just called last night and said he had to leave on some business. But he didn't say what business, nor where he'd be, nor when he'd be back."

Cass stared straight ahead, her eyes blank. "He just walked out on me," she said woodenly.

"Oh, no. Not you, too!"

Cass glared at her, her lips were thin. "There's no too about it," she said tartly. "It was right for him to go."

"But not without you, Cass! Why, he needs you, and the help you could be."

"I haven't helped him much in the past months," said Cass grimly. "You knew that! And tried to tell me."

"Oh, Cass . . ."
"No, Sue. Besides, I'm the one who needs him! Alex knows that, too! Just about as surely as he knows that he cannot let me run his life."

Sue smiled wistfully. "In that case, you're a lucky girl—to have that kind of basis for your marriage."

"Just at this minute, Sue, I'm not sure of my luck—or my marriage."

"Oh, things will be all right. How's about coming in for lunch?"

"No, I must go back. You've heard about Marcy?"

"Heavens, what's happened to her?"

Quickly she told Sue of Jake's coming, and briefly mentioned his purpose. She told warmly of the immediate attention between him and Marcy, told how fine a man he was. She even told of her own farcical mistake about his identity. "I did my best to make them share a bedroom," And she told, gently wistful, of the happy outcome of the swift romance. Jake and Marcy were driving to his home in Illinois, and would be married there.

"I'm glad," said Sue earnestly. "That bigamy deal—how could a man do such a thing to a lovely young girl like Marcy?"

"Because she was young and lovely."

"I suppose. And because men—some men—are selfish heels."

Cass gathered up her purse. "What about you and Matt now? On the night of the storm—remember?—you said you didn't love him any more."

"I know. And I didn't. Maybe I don't, and won't. But I hope that won't make too much difference when it comes to keeping the family together. That project is going to give us a basis on which we can—we hope—rebuild our marriage."

She leaned toward Cass tensely. "But if you have any idea that Alex Ward doesn't love you . . ."

Cass stood up and smoothed her skirt. "He definitely did not love me last night, Sue, when he left the house. Resentment was the only feeling he had for me then."

"I don't believe it. He loves you too much. And in many ways you've been absolutely wonderful!"

"I have not been wonderful!" said Cass passionately. "I've been—I've been downright weaselly in my meddling. Sue Knapp, I have! Look at all the damage I've done in less than a year here in the Cove. To Alex, and almost to Marcy. And even to poor Aunt Cordy. I tried to undermine their individualities, I burrowed into their personalities, I used them—I did everything I possibly could to make myself essential to them, and needed by them. To build myself up, to give myself power."

"They don't need me now, half as much as I need them. Especially Alex—though now, by a miracle of God—maybe the storm came to my rescue, too. Just as it did to you and Matt. And to Marcy. Maybe it saved me, too. But in any case, I thank God that something brought me to the point where I could realize that I won't want others to need me that way, to lean upon me, and build their lives entirely around me."

Sue came to her, and put her arm about Cass's slender shoulders. "You're going to live in that hope, aren't you?"

"Of course. I haven't any choice. I must hope that when he's back on his own feet, and is his own man, firmly established in his work as a man, that he'll return to me."

"Oh, he will, Cass. He'll come back—and soon."

Cass smiled faintly. "I hope it's soon," she confessed. "But whenever it is, Sue, I'll be waiting for him. Ready to honor him, and admire him, to love him. But above all, to let him be himself, to grow, to make his own decisions. That's what he's given me—and I mean to give it to him, now, if he'll let me have another chance!"

Sue stooped to kiss her. "Oh, Cass," she cried earnestly. "You are a lucky girl! To have even the hope of sharing that kind of love. A love that will be all the stronger for what you've both been through."

"For what we've been through . . ." Cass repeated softly. Then she turned to her friend. "But, Sue," she cried, almost joyously. "You have that hope too! You and Matt can have that sort of love—"

"Some day," said Sue, smiling gently. "Some day we'll have it, Cass. Yes, I think we shall."

CASHING IN—This bride in Messina, Sicily, gets a quick nestegg through the custom of pinning money on her bridal gown as a "fee" for dancing with her. Chap in photo gave the most, so he got first dance.

Well Digger's One Arm Is Enough

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—For half a century, O. E. Stark has been using his one arm to dig wells. He's a general Mr. Fix-it.

Stark, 64, lost his right arm at the age of 14. He started digging wells the same year.

Last summer, he dug nine wells, ranging from 12 feet to 40 feet deep. But that isn't all he does. He's a general Mr. Fix-it.

ious other jobs.

And his good left arm has provided a home for his family. All eight of his children have received a high school education in this east-central Texas community.

Digging wells has its dangers, no matter how many arms you have, he said. Several times dirt caved in on him while he was at the bottom of the excavation. One time, he fell 42 feet to the bottom of the hole and broke both feet. A few years ago, a five gallon bucket of mud fell on him, injuring his hip. That kept him out of the well-digging business for a time.

Stark said Robertson County is going to have to find another well-digger pretty soon. At 64, he admits he would like to retire because he doesn't feel he can do as good a job as he did when younger.

The average motorist in the United States drives about 7,800 miles in a year.

Needless

The Declaration of Independence never was proclaimed in Connecticut because 16 days before Gov. Jonathan Trumbull had issued one so similar to it that the Philadelphia declaration was considered needless.
